B.C. Clears Indian Band Of Abduction

Abduction charges against West Saanich Indians will be dropped, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday.

The charges were laid after an Indian woman was taken from her home on the reserve and compelled to join a band of ceremonial dancers in an ancient initiation ceremony.

NOT AWARE

"It is not the desire of the Crown to interfere in local Indian traditional rituals and I am satisfied that the local band was, at the time the particular event took place, not aware that their rites were possibly in violation of criminal law," said the attorney-general.

Mr. Bonner indicated it had been pointed out to Chief Ed Underwood of the Tsanout Band that the ceremony traditionally carried out violates certain provisions of the criminal code.

OTHER BANDS

Chief Underwood, who met officials of the attorney-general's department, said it was not the wish of his band or any other bands on Vancouver Island who carried out such a traditional dance to violate the law.

The chief also indicated that his people were prepared to accept this as a very serious warning and that all steps would be taken to see that his group would observe the law when carrying out the ritual.

EVERY WISH

Mr. Bonner, in a prepared statement, said the Crown had every wish and hope that the traditional Indian dances would continue as a part of the common heritage of the country.

He assured Chief Underwood that it was not the desire of the Crown in any way to interfere with such rites when they were not in conflict with the laws of the country.

Jail Tutor Arrested As Pusher

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—J. A. York, a vocational instructor at the British Columbia penitentiary here, Wednesday was charged with being in possession of narcotics for the purpose of trafficking. RCMP said they have recovered 60 capsules containing a white powder.

They said York was arrested following a joint investigation with the penitentiary staff.

'Calamity' Strikes Rio

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Governor Carlos Lacerda proclaimed a "state of calamity" in this city Wednesday as its 3,500,000 persons entered the fifth day of the most serious water shortage in its history. Pumps were broken by floods last week.

Courtesy Costs Fortune

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police traffic superintendent John Fisk estimated Wednesday the city could lose $300,000 in traffic fines annually under the courtesy warning system which replaced most traffic "tickets" 11 days ago. Fisk said 702 warning notices were issued in the seven days after the scheme started Feb. 25.

Socreds Choose Hahn

Reeve George Hahn of Surrey last night won the Social Credit nomination for the Esquimalt-Saanich federal by-election. He defeated Tom Irwin, former Speaker of the provincial legislature, and fuel dealer Clarence Ellis. (See story, Page 17.)

Arms Negotiation Renewal Likely

OTTAWA (CP)—Prospects for a resumption of disarmament talks appear to be good, External Affairs Minister Green said Wednesday.

"The whole disarmament picture looks considerably brighter than it did before Christmas," he told the Commons.

He was replying to Paul Martin (L—Essex East), who

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI)—The X15's top speed of almost 3,000 miles an hour on its paint-blistering speed run would carry it from New York to Los Angeles in 50 minutes.

Quebec Lottery Likely

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—Premier Jean Lesage hinted Wednesday that the province of Quebec will soon have a provincial lottery.

He told a six-member delegation of railway union officials that the provincial government was studying the proposal.

He also said he discussed the matter with Justice Minister Davie Fulton at last month's federal-provincial fiscal conference and received assurance from Fulton that the matter would be looked into.

The union delegation presented a brief asking that a provincial lottery be held to help pay the cost of the province's medical services.

Treaty Vote Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. William Fulbright (D—Ark.) said yesterday the Senate foreign relations committee might vote next Tuesday on the Columbia Basin treaty between the United States and Canada.

Fulbright, chairman of the committee, said he expected no opposition to the treaty which then would go to the full Senate for ratification.

(See also Page 14.) A two-thirds majority is needed for ratification of the treaty, which calls for joint development of water resources of the Columbia by the United States and Canada for a 60-year period.

RED CHINESE NEEDED IN ANY ARMS TALKS

London Parley Agrees

LONDON (CP)—Commonwealth prime ministers Wednesday expressed general agreement that Communist China must be brought into any disarmament agreements to make them meaningful.

In a wide exchange of views, the majority was also reported to have called for Communist China's admission to the United Nations.

MAY HAVE TO

Reuters news agency said Wednesday night that Britain is already reported to have informed President Kennedy privately that Britain may have to back Communist China's admission if the issue comes to a vote at the UN this fall.

The majority of Commonwealth prime ministers are likely to line up with Britain, Reuters added.

There was no indication of any change in the Canadian position opposing UN discussion of China's admission.

HARMONIOUS

The opening discussions at the 10th annual prime ministers' conference were described as harmonious.

South Africa's application to remain in the club as a republic, which still is generating a lot of heated controversy, is expected to come up Monday. (See Page 31.)

The feeling is growing that South Africa will remain in, but not without fiery criticism.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is expected to be among the leading critics of apartheid.

RIGHTS DECLARATION

He intends to ask his fellow leaders to support a Commonwealth declaration guaranteeing equal rights to all, regardless of race, creed or color.

He touched briefly on the Congo crisis Wednesday and expressed appreciation of the Indian decision to send more combat troops.

He said the UN's Congo force should include more troops from white nations, but he did not indicate that Canada plans to increase her troops there.

88 Miners Lost in Fire

FUKUOKA, Japan (UPI)—Fire broke out in a coal mine near here today, trapping 88 men underground. Seven other miners were rescued. There was little hope the others would survive the inferno.

Bomb Discovered As A-Sub Passes

KILDONAN, Scotland (Reuters)—A live bomb was discovered here on Arran Island yesterday as the nuclear-powered United States submarine Patrick Henry passed by on its way to the submarine supply base in Holy Loch.

A three-man naval bomb disposal team exploded the bomb as this island hamlet in the Firth of Clyde a few hours after the submarine went by.

The Coast Guard here said the bomb made "a small explosion" when detonated by the team. The island's police would say nothing about it.

The Patrick Henry, first of 10 Polaris-armed submarines due to use the Holy Loch supply base, passed within a few miles of Kildonan on its way to join its mother ship, the Proteus.

The 5,900-ton submarine, packing a full nuclear punch of 16 Polaris missiles, spent a record 66 days and 22 hours under water on its trip from Charleston, S.C.

Quit Job, Get Welfare Court Orders Mother

VANCOUVER (CP)—A juvenile court judge in Burnaby Tuesday ordered a working mother to go back on social assistance in order to supervise a delinquent son.

Judge C. C. Bell told the woman to leave her employment as a hospital maid, after her two sons appeared in court.

The older boy, 14, was sentenced to not less than a year in the Brannan Lake industrial school on six counts of theft.

The woman's 10-year-old boy was fined $25 on three charges of committing a delinquency by stealing. His mother was ordered to pay the fine.

"If there is further evidence of lack of supervision I will recommend that your children be placed in foster homes," the judge said.

Two attendants, seeing a half-dressed man sprinting through the snow, came to the obvious conclusion.

"All of a sudden a car stopped behind me and I was seized by two white-coated attendants," Greig said yesterday. "There was no rough stuff, but there was no discussion either. I had to go with them."

"I tried to explain who I was, but they understood no English and I speak no Norwegian. I had the impression they believed I believed I was the King of England."

"So there I sat, behind locked doors, until a doctor came, and the whole thing was cleared up."

Three hours after Greig left the house, his wife received an urgent telephone call to "come and get me out of this madhouse."

"I told her to fetch me in the car," he said. "I wasn't going to risk more running through those hospital grounds."

'Come Get Me Out of This Madhouse!'

OSLO, Norway (UPI)—Stanley Greig, a Royal Air Force officer stationed at NATO headquarters here, is a bit of an athlete but not really nuts on the subject.

Whenever he has a respite from his duties he dons shorts and an old sweatshirt and sets out on a brisk trot through suburban Oslo in a one-man keep-fit campaign.

Last Saturday he kissed his wife goodbye and then made the mistake of trotting onto the grounds of the Gaustad mental institution. He realized his mistake and tried to canter out again.

Two attendants, seeing a half-dressed man sprinting through the snow, came to the obvious conclusion.

"All of a sudden a car stopped behind me and I was seized by two white-coated attendants," Greig said yesterday. "There was no rough stuff, but there was no discussion either. I had to go with them."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

"YOU must be mistaken," I told my friend. "I didn't see any women in the unemployed parade wearing fur coats."

"They were there," he insisted.

"Then they must have dropped out by the time I saw them," I remarked.

"Maybe they found the heat too much, under the mink," he said.

"Rabbit, if anything," I remarked. "But I didn't see these coats. I hope you're not trying to play down the seriousness of the problem. There are fair numbers of people out of work."

"Sure there are people out of work," he acknowledged. "But I was thinking of the contrast between the prosperous look of those paraders and the desperate look of the ones in the 1930s."

"In the 1930s," he went on, "the unemployed marchers looked hungry. They had patches on their clothes and holes in their shoes. But this time, they were all fairly well dressed. No patches or holes."

"That's true," I said. "And the banners and placards were neatly lettered, and the paraders were well organized and cheerful. But that isn't the whole story."

"What else?"

"The main thing is that they meant it," I said. "Sure, the demonstration was partly political—anti-Socred. But they were in earnest about unemployment. I found it a chilling experience to see them go by, and hear them chanting 'We Want Jobs.'"

"What really scared me," I added, "was the indifference and puzzlement that some of the on-lookers showed. I heard one prosperous-looking man asking: 'What's all this about?' in a most supercilious way."

"Well, it isn't just jobs they want," my friend objected. "They're asking for jobs at union wages. Money to pay the instalments on the deep-freeze, the car and the automatic washer."

"All right for you, you're working," I said. "Have you tried living on unemployment insurance or welfare?"

"Hunger marchers in fur coats," my friend said.

"By the way," I said, "you know Barney McKinley, who used to be with us—now the Toronto Telegram? He's doing a series of stories about how it feels to be unemployed in Toronto."

"How does it feel?"

"Miserable. Flophouses, soup kitchens, policemen telling you to move on, Barney says. Here's a piece from his story: 'Though nowadays they call you "Sir" at the National Employment Service office, the Sick 60s are replaying the tragedy of the hungry 30s.'"

"Barney's a good writer," I said.

My friend nodded. "But I'm not sure I like this idea of playing at being unemployed, or playing at being a pensioner, no matter how skilled a writer does the job."

"Yes, the people who have to go on being unemployed may resent it."

"It's all very well for a man who can return to a clean, comfortable house, and write pieces in the paper, saying: 'I was a hobo for a month.'"

"I was a leper for a week," or something like that, eh? The people who have to remain lepers won't like it. But listen," I said. "Barney had a taste of hard times in the 1930s. Everything looks different from the inside."

"It does," my friend acknowledged.

Airy Stomach Rumbles Nothing to Worry About

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, MD

"Dear Dr. Molner: What causes my stomach to growl so loud it can be heard all over the room? My doctor said I was hungry, but this happens even after I have eaten a big meal. There is no pain. What can I do for this? — Mrs. A. R."

Readers would be amazed at how often I receive such questions. The person whose stomach gives some rumble-grumbles is sure that everybody in the block hears it. This isn't necessarily true. We're all self-conscious about our own rumbles and stumbles, but not unduly aware about those of our companions.

So I suggest that all of us worry a little less.

OVER-ACTIVE. Medically, my answer is this: The rumbles may at times be the result of what we call "hypermotility"—some over-enthusiastic activity of the muscles of the small bowel. But this is not, to the best of my knowledge, anything to be disturbed about, so long as there is nothing obviously wrong otherwise.

A more likely cause of rumbles is air. Somebody, usually somebody of a tense, nervous temperament, can't relax, even at mealtime.

Such a person, because of tension, eats as though every bite is the last scrap of food until next Tuesday. The result: A little bit of air is swallowed with each bite of food.

OLD CUSTOM. This is a far, far commoner habit than most people realize. As I've mentioned before, it is, or used to be, a habit the Chinese cultivated on purpose, so that, to show that they liked the food set before them, they could belch, copiously at the table, and produce flattering stomach rumbles later.

So, since east is east and west is silent, one way to avoid these rumbles is to take some pains to eat slowly and methodically, and to avoid gulping air.

Dr. Joseph G. Molner is a medical officer in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Commodore Brock was born in Vancouver and was the first Canadian ever given command of a Royal Navy anti-submarine frigate group.

One of the highlights of his naval career was an encounter with a pack of more than 20 U-boats in October, 1943. The escort group destroyed six and drove away the rest.

Rear-Admiral Tisdall attended the Royal Naval College of Canada at Esquimalt, in 1921 and 1922. In 1946, he served as executive officer of HMCS Naden.

Capt. Welland served on the staff of Royal Roads in the 1940s, and commanded HMCS Venture when it was begun in August, 1954.

Gizenga Claims Top Post

CAIRO (UPI) — Leftist Congolese leader Antoine Gizenga yesterday recognized Joseph Kasavubu as legitimate president of the Congo but declared himself the country's legitimate premier.

Gizenga, who boycotted the Congo "summit" meeting on Malagasy, said he based his claim on his succession to Patrice Lumumba.

UN Brings in Rockets Congo Lays Down Law

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters) — Some 600 rocket-equipped Tunisian troops arrived here Wednesday as the Congolese central government laid down stringent conditions to be met before the UN can return to two important supply ports.

The Tunisians were flown in on U.S. Air-Force Globemasters with a large supply of 3.5-inch rockets. A UN spokesman said they would temporarily reinforce the UN garrison here.

Conditions for return of the ports of Matadi and Bahana, seized last weekend, were control of aircraft movements and river pilots on UN troop vessels and joint Congolese-UN airfield control.

TANANARIVE, Malagasy (Reuters) — Congolese political leaders opening a "summit" conference here Wednesday called on the UN to stall any action until the outcome of their peace parley is known.

The conferees cabled UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, saying any new UN moves on the Congo would "very seriously aggravate the situation."

UNITED FRONT

Premier Moise Tshombe of Katanga called on his fellow delegates to form a united front and then demand that all UN forces be withdrawn.

Tshombe proposed that the assembled leaders and the absent Antoine Gizenga immediately set up a united front to oppose the UN Security Council resolution empowering UN troops to use force if necessary to prevent civil war in the Congo.

THEN DEMAND

If a united front were formed, Tshombe said, Congolese leaders would demand the withdrawal of all UN forces. Tshombe said there were "three mortal dangers" facing the Congo. These were the setting up of a UN trusteeship, Communist penetration and "another Korea."

TESTING GROUND

He claimed that in the event of "another Korea" both Russia and the U.S. were prepared to use the Congo "as a testing ground for new nuclear weapons."

The delegates expressed disappointment all Congolese leaders were not at the talks.

Yarrows Wins Again

For the second time in a week, Yarrows Ltd. is successful bidder on a contract for a large barge.

Newest contract for $220,000, is for construction of a steel gravel-and-cement barge for Deeks-McBride Ltd. of Vancouver, one of the B.C.'s largest construction supply firms.

The craft will be 174 feet long with beam of 46 feet and depth of 13 feet. It will provide work for 40 men for 60 days. Equipment will include a conveyor system for unloading sand and gravel.

Work has started already at Yarrows on an $800,000 self-loading and unloading log barge for MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co.—work for 100 men for four months.

The Public Is One

NO doubt the Social Credit member who spoke against the anti-discrimination bill was voicing a basic truth when he said that problems could arise in push resorts if they must cater to mixed racial groups. That does not invalidate the legislation, however. These places operate under public licence and must therefore treat the public as one.

Discrimination because of color or creed, as the education minister pointed out, is humiliating and offensive, and in this day and age contrary to the ethical standards which should prevail in a democratic nation. It must be remembered also that all citizens of British Columbia are not white-skinned, but they are citizens with the same public rights as anyone else.

What people elect to do in their own private social circles is something else. Here each group must have its own right, which means the freedom to choose its own associates. Individuals are at liberty to pick their own friends and decide with whom they shall foregather. This goes for non-whites as well as for whites, each division preferring perhaps that kinship should form a basis for their association.

There is no use blinking the fact that in life color, creed and religious affiliations do have a bearing on friendship and social arrangements. It is human nature that like should attract like and that people should prefer to associate with those with whom they feel most at home. Nor can this preference be denied them so long as no public discrimination enters the picture.

In the latter realm however the anti-discrimination bill is consistent with the concepts which good governments recognize must obtain throughout the society in their charge. While social bias does exist and probably always will—although social bias is to be found in non-white circles as well as in white circles, it should not be forgotten—when it comes to public services it is desirable that neither color, ethnic quality nor creed should infringe on the freedom of any citizen of B.C.

Persons who set up public agencies designed to serve the public, all the public, must adhere to this basic principle, which is fundamental to the well-being of the province. The fact that such a bill has been introduced; also, indicates the need for this restatement of a common right.

Kid-Glove Experiment

PERHAPS the greatest single thorn in the Communist world's ideological side is East Berlin. It is a thorn that has caused a festering welt since the day the battle-scarred city section was occupied by Soviet troops in 1945 and still remains as a constant reminder that Russian socialism is not the answer to man's search for a better world.

Estimates vary on the numbers of East Berliners who have fled the Red rule of the city but it can be taken that a good proportion of the 3.3 million refugees from Communist Germany as a whole came from there.

Those that have remained have lived under a military dictatorship, been subjected to mass brain-washing, and mercilessly gunned down in the abortive uprising of 1953 against the Moscow directed regime.

But suddenly this has been changed. On orders from the Kremlin, the East Berlin government is to try the kid-glove approach.

In the words of the Communist leaders to their hard-fisted minions; "there is still too much ordering about going on, too often people are being turned away and given curt answers, and there is too much arrogant and condescending behaviour."

Thus the Khrushchev "soft-sell" is going into effect in East Berlin. If it works it will be tried throughout East Germany and then exported to the rest of the world as part of the Communist peace offensive to conquer the world without a shot.

It will be interesting to note how the East Berlin guinea pigs react to the treatment for on them could well rest the balance of power between East and West.

Let's Keep the Scenery

IT is gratifying to learn that the Capital Improvement District Commission is taking an active interest in the preservation of so-called green belts on the outskirts of Greater Victoria. It is by no means gratifying to see contemporaneously one of those little advertisements in agate type that hardly anyone reads, calling to the attention of the public that, outside municipalities, all buildings must be set back at least 25 feet from the edge of the right of way of any provincial highway.

Dr. William Newton engendered the current wave of talk about green belts—green strips and green patches, actually—with a statement in which one of his main points was that hungry future generations would curse this one for allowing residential development to cover arable land, when so little of the land is arable. It may be difficult to impress with this argument the man whose ordinary breakfast table to-day offers food and drink from the corners of the earth. Even so, the cows are getting farther away.

But both he and the B.C. Association of Real Estate Boards have put forward another argument, of more immediate consequence: the need to preserve the scenic beauty along the highways which is one of this province's greatest assets.

Because of the rugged terrain of British Columbia, the association says, highway locations mostly must be permanent. When ribbon development along a highway renders it unsightly and reduces its usefulness, it cannot easily be relocated.

Therefore the association holds that the provincial government should acquire substantially wider rights of way when building highways, and insist on substantially greater building setbacks to retain and take full advantage of the natural splendor of the land.

How right it is! Beside highways which must be widened and re-widened with the passing years, a 25-foot setback is less than nothing.

Interpreting the News

Cuban-American Problems

By FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY, UPI Latin-American News Editor

THE big puzzle in diplomatic circles this week is where Argentina got the idea of offering to "mediate" Cuban-American problems.

The urgent nature of the Argentine offer—a cable to the state department from the Argentine foreign office—was not without precedent, but it was unusual diplomatic procedure.

Normally, such ideas are transmitted to Washington through the American embassies in the countries involved. In this case, the U.S. embassy in Buenos Aires appears to have been bypassed.

The Argentine offer also was the more unusual in that it came on the heels of a flat statement by Adolf A. Berle, Jr., to the effect that the Cuban problem was not a simple matter between Cuba and the U.S. but a continental issue to be resolved collectively by the inter-American community.

Berle, advisor to President Kennedy on Latin-American problems, made the statement in Brasilia after a lengthy conference with President Janio Quadros. His statement was the more emphatic in view of reports that Quadros had told him that Brazil opposed any collective action or even consultation on the Cuban Problem.

If the Argentine action was not prompted by a Washington desire to get Berle off a "hot spot," it could only have been inspired by Fidel Castro.

The Cuban premier's "on again, off again" proffers of peace to Washington are based on desperation and not desire.

Of 20 sister Latin-American republics, eight have either broken or suspended diplomatic relations with Cuba while three other nations have ousted Cuban diplomatic envoys from their soil.

Bluntly this means that more than half the western hemisphere is not on normal speaking terms with Cuba.

For Castro, seeking to present his revolution as "at peace" with all but the United States, this is an intolerable situation.

The issues in the so-called Cuban problem are simple ones.

They are:

Do the Cuban people want communism?

Does the western hemisphere want communism?

Can the United States afford to have a Communist base 90 miles from its shores?

In each of the three instances, the reply is negative.

Enough of Cuba's 6,000,000 people have shown they don't want communism sufficiently openly as to force Castro to maintain a standing army of 300,000 men, or 10 times the size of any previous armed establishment in the tiny country's history.

The hemisphere's position may be deduced from the number of nations in the New World wishing no diplomatic truck with Castro.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings"

By TOM TAYLOR

I SUPPOSE I am what is called an old imperial, since once I wore a British army uniform and in days when these troops were called imperial. It is a good thing for the world they had an imperial concept even if nowadays that word is in disrepute; this continent for instance, including the United States, grew in peace and comfort primarily because for so many decades Britannia ruled the waves.

This simple circumstance is conveniently forgotten, but it assures any untoward feeling that might afflict me. Not that I am disturbed.

It is now all very much a matter of words, of the terms used and especially with constant repetition. Russia is in fact the great modern imperialist and in the style of Rome, but she has managed by guile and propaganda to make the word "imperial" with its relation "colonial," seem one of stigma.

She never uses the term to describe herself, her effrontery in this respect taking one's breath away.

Britain has been a great imperial power with colonies and protectorates all over the globe. Canada is one heir; the U.S.A. another. But there never before was an empire which voluntarily trained so many subject peoples to try to judge the government's efforts to defeat the recession.

Nor was any part of the world better served than by the dedicated colonial officers of that same Britain. It is currently the fashion by those safe and sound and from the scene, to sneer at the white man in places where colored natives outnumber him, but the true worth of the British contribution to the promotion of the colored man is manifest in Africa today.

The Congo, even in an era which puts speed before knowledge, should prove to anyone that independence is premature to those to whom lack of education and understanding make the term meaningless.

It is surprising however and discouraging that Americans should fall so easily to the side of those who cry "colonialism" as though it were necessarily a badge of dishonor. It can be well said I think that far more honor than dishonor attaches to the British colonial system. Yet American officials—no less a one than Adlai Stevenson included—also harp indiscriminately on colonialism as though the once-great colonial powers, Britain and France, were not among her best friends.

In its fight against communism the U.S.A. is in danger of belittling her allies to their grave detriment.

This is all the more peculiar because, although probably she does not stop to think so, America is also a colonial power. She uses the word "territories" to describe her possessions, but it means precisely the same thing. The Pacific Islands of Guam, Wake and Midway, the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico, the Panama Canal Zone—the latter no different in essence from the once-British-held Suez Canal Zone—these all come under the aegis of the U.S.A. So did Hawaii for half-a-century before being neatly co-opted as a state of the Union.

America grew in truth as did the British Empire; the only difference being that in the main America expanded westwards on a land mass, whereas Britain crossed the seas to plant its flag.

All nations of old were imperialistic in this sense, pushing outwards when they could. Hitler was a late example of a process now frowned upon by modern opinion except in Russia and China, which cling to the imperialist philosophy they affect to condemn.

It is a pity that Americans of influence and power should not be able to assess colonialism in its true light. Especially when they are on tender ground themselves.

Reports From Ottawa

Gerald Waring

DEBATE in the Commons on the government's economic pump priming plans has a willingness to which all parties are deliberately contributing.

Some of the measures, like the National Productivity Council, are long term. Others, like corporation tax changes, are intended to have immediate effect. Yet all are debated against a sombre backdrop of three-quarters of a million unemployed: one worker in nine without a job.

The government is plagued by indecision, harassed by critics, and, mindful of the Tories' 22 years in the wilderness, is no doubt frightened as it thinks of the political consequences if it fails to rescue the economy. So from each economic measure the Tories try to wring as much political advantage as possible. They present and debate long-term proposals in the light of current conditions, seeking to leave an impression that these proposals are part of the government's cure for current unemployment.

The opposition parties do exactly the opposite. They criticize long-term plans as doing nothing to cure current ills. Thus a great deal of the debate is at cross purposes, and the total result is a fuzziness confusing to those trying to judge the government's efforts to defeat the recession.

Reports From Ottawa

The government's plan has a superficial resemblance to the U.S. system of declaring areas of excessive unemployment to be "distressed areas," and therefore having first priority on government contracts. But Ottawa doesn't offer contracts—only double depreciation for tax purposes for one year on capital expenditures by new industry establishing itself in a surplus manpower area.

Finance Minister Fleming's refusal to admit that such "surplus manpower areas" with "chronic unemployment" are either "depressed" or "distressed" is an exercise in political semantics that is ludicrous.

Will this program help employment in 1961? The Tories won't say it won't, and the Grits won't say it will. But if you were an industrialist with capital to invest in new plant, would double depreciation for one year be much of an inducement? Industry doesn't want merely surplus labor, but also the right kind of labor—e.g., a cigar factory doesn't want unemployed loggers. Industry also wants labor, transportation, power and raw materials at low cost, and easy access to markets.

My own feeling is that this program won't be effective. But the government's acceptance of the principle of special aid to distressed areas smaller than provinces is most important, and lends real significance to the battle in the Commons over the criteria to be used in identifying surplus manpower areas. Next time around the government may have something much more valuable to offer industry in these areas—maybe accelerated capital depreciation, maybe a 5 per cent advantage in bidding on government contracts.

A case in point is the government's plan to declare areas of chronic unemployment "surplus manpower areas" in the hope of encouraging new industry to locate in them. This was debated in the Commons on Thursday and Friday, with no indication whatsoever of how many areas or what specific areas will qualify for the aid to industry offered in this measure.

The Packback

Much of a Muchness

By GREGORY CLARK

A LADY of my acquaintance was very out last week to encounter within a matter of two hours another woman wearing the same hat as she had on, and another wearing the identical dress she had. This ruined her whole afternoon.

Men are never troubled with this problem. In fact, it is always a matter of pleased astonishment on the part of two men when they discover they are wearing identical coats. And when 40 men arrive at a luncheon, all wearing trench coats or raincoats so alike that there is trouble, after lunch, picking their own coats out of the muddle on the coat racks, there is no sense of embarrassment on anybody's part.

There are probably 400 or 2,000 styles in women's hats. There are barely a dozen in men's. But a man seldom has any trouble picking his hat off the shelf in even a crowded restaurant. Because however identical men's hats may be in general style and pattern, there is something a man does to his hat as soon as he buys it that makes it undeniably his. Within a day or two, a man's new hat has been yanked into individuality.

Unlike men who care nothing about being different but are, women strive so hard to be different that they are pretty much all the same.

Reading and Income

Book-Worms in France

By WILLIAM MILLINSHIP From Paris

WHATEVER their standard of education, the French often impress foreign residents by their lively interest in literature and the arts. It therefore comes as a shock to learn that 38 per cent of them never read a book.

This was revealed by a recent poll conducted on behalf of the National Publishers' Syndicate and the reading habits of 2,082 Frenchmen and women over 20. Results varied not only according to education; as one might expect, but also from place to place. The highest density of non-readers was found in the sunny south of France, and country-people as a general rule read less than town dwellers. Only one farm worker out of six ever reads a book, while among industrial workers the proportion is one to three.

The poll revealed that the book-worms also read more newspapers and magazines, go to the theatre and cinema more often, and play more games. Half of the book readers were between 20 and 37. Nine per cent of those interviewed read more than 10 books every three months. But perhaps the most revealing fact was that 72 per cent of the book readers earned more than $300 a month—a fairly high wage in France.

The connection between reading and income is best explained by the difficulty of borrowing books in France. Public lending libraries are poor and under-developed. If a Frenchman wants to read a book, he has to buy it, and in most cases, the investigators found, he prefers to invest his spare cash in a car or a television set.

Given the opportunity, however, the French will apparently bury themselves in works on art, science, philosophy, politics, history and even philology. The Renault Motor Company which has its own lending library of 400,000 volumes lends considerably more non-fiction than fiction. Perhaps the foreign residents' impression of the French intellectual atmosphere is more accurate than the publishers' poll suggests.

Washington Calling

Restoring Competition

By MARQUIS CHILDS

IF competition is indeed the lifeblood of the free enterprise system then the business community should be deeply grateful to the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice for the successful prosecution of the big electrical manufacturing companies.

The blockbuster of a suit, resulting in the jailing of seven executives and suspended jail sentences for 23 others with fines levied against 29 companies, has had the widest repercussions. And the end cannot be foreseen, since a Senate investigation is in prospect and a whole flock of lawsuits to recover damages will be filed.

What has been little understood is that the dramatic effort to try to restore competition to the electrical manufacturing field—and perhaps therefore to other fields as well—was touched off by the Tennessee Valley Authority. Rebelling against what they considered exorbitant, almost identical bids from Westinghouse and General Electric for a 500,000-watt turbo-generator, TVA officials called for bids from a British firm. The evaluated British bid was $6,000,000 lower and the difference in lower British labor costs, it was established, amounted to less than half the price differential.

So, despite a political clamor; the British bid was accepted. A little later TVA pointed out publicly a set of identical bids. This was elaborated in a series of articles in the Scripps-Howard newspapers, showing how the buyer was at the mercy of a few large corporations that came up with almost exactly the same prices as though competition did not exist.

When Robert A. Bicks, the brilliant young head of the anti-trust division in the Eisenhower administration, set out on the trail of the big electrical companies one of the first moves was to send an investigator to the Knoxville, Tenn., headquarters of TVA. There it was not a question of looking for the needle in the haystack. Facts and figures were immediately at hand.

As preparations for the case went forward in Philadelphia, the Justice Department got a lucky break. One of the company executives agreed to talk and in the secrecy of the federal grand jury he filled in the details of secret hotel room meetings, coded telephone conversations and all the apparatus of the far-reaching conspiracy that Bicks and his aides brought to light.

TVA officials expect to recover several million dollars from General Electric covering one generator deal. This was at the point in 1959 when prices of equipment had climbed nearly 80 per cent after 1953. They declined sharply after TVA took the low British bid. Private firms have the same right to sue to recover on excessive charges as has TVA, a fact which has interested private utility stockholders if not utility executives.

But what has startled TVA officials since the wholesale anti-trust conviction is that identical bids continue to come in. Thus far these do not cover the massive equipment involved in past disputes. But the uniformity down to the last penny is nonetheless striking, and TVA is sending them all to the Justice Department for consideration. The companies say the explanation is in the fact that prices are standardized in catalogues.

As a frequent target of business attack TVA has been charged with being a socialist experiment or at the very least a government-subsidized power operation. But TVA insists on its "yardstick" function and in the case of rigged prices throughout the electrical manufacturing industry TVA officials claim that they have done business a big favor in trying to inject real competition and in working for lower prices and, therefore, more consumption.

One thing at least has been achieved and that has been to touch off a broad debate on the whole subject of prices, controls, monopoly and the nature of the economy. The Wall Street Journal in the fact that four articles exonerated the electrical companies. American industry has been gravely challenged and there is the keenest interest both at home and abroad in how that challenge will be met.

Since brass, nor stone, nor earth, nor boundless sea, But sad mortality o'erthrows their power.

How with this rage shall beauty hold a plea, Whose action is no stronger than a flower?

O! how shall summer's honey breath hold out Against the wreckful siege of battering days,

When rocks impregnable are not so stout, Nor gates of steel so strong, but Time decays?

O fearful meditation! where, alack! Shall Time's best jewel from Time's chest lie hid?

Or what strong hand can hold his swift foot back?

Or who his spoil of beauty can forbid?

O! none, unless this miracle have might,

That in black ink my love may still shine bright.

Letters to the Editor

None Too Soon

It is interesting to see that amalgamation is again much in the news and now with the subject being brought up before the assembly of the provincial legislature we may hope to see a start being made in bringing amalgamation into action, in the near future. This makes the third major attempt within the last 15 years to interest the citizens of the surrounding municipalities in having amalgamation.

The writer wishes to pay tribute as a citizen and taxpayer to Forrest Shaw, former city solicitor to Victoria, who gave much of his time in 1946 with holding meetings in the municipalities of Greater Victoria in explaining the advantages of amalgamation; then again Arthur Ash, a former reeve of Saanich Municipality, made every effort during his term of office to bring amalgamation into force in Saanich. May I further state the Colonist gave much space at the time in support of their efforts.

Taxes have already become a burden and will be worse in the future so that amalgamation cannot be brought into effect too soon to give some compensation to the home owners of small income.

After That, What?

Ten men are working for Mr. A. producing each day articles which sell for $100; out of which Mr. A. pays $50 in production costs, including wages.

At this point Mr. A. decides to invest some of his profits in a machine that does the work of these workers, needing only one man to operate; the result, nine men are out of work, and Mr. A's profits are greater for the time being, that is until these out-of-work customers can no longer buy Mr. A's product, with the result that Mr. A. eventually reaches the stage where he has to live on his accumulated assets.

After that, what? I leave the answer to the reader lest I be called a Socialist.

Distressing Picture

That distressing picture on the first page of the second section of the Colonist of Tuesday last, seriously serves to confirm the feeling of helplessness of most of your readers. What can we do? For those 1,500 jobless we have the most complete sympathy. For the utterly helpless government we can only feel sorry. Faced as we are with the fact our economic system is not meeting our need, just how can we avert the impending economic chaos? We fully realize we can not retain a capitalist economy of high wages, short work hours and high profits during work hours, and have at meal time a social or communist economy of low prices, cheap food, and still high wages and profits.

Enough for Young

As long as I can remember, right across Canada, curling was played by men in the middle and older age groups. Now high school students and others of the same age want to start curling clubs of their own. Surely there are enough games of sport to enter into without trying to take the laurels from the older ones.

Landmark Going

A news item in the Colonist of March 7 says that another distinctive Victoria landmark is to be destroyed—the house in Oak Bay built out over the water. I feel a sort of proprietary interest in the place as my aunt, Mrs. Frank Cooper, lived there around the turn of the century. I was thinking only the other day what a wonderful tearoom could be made out of a place in a beautiful setting. Light lunches could also be served, preferably of the sea food variety.

Could not the council reconsider its decision to demolish the place?

Wicked Project

The premier is to be heartily commended on his recent delaying action on the Columbia River power scheme. May he take any further action that will result in this most iniquitous piece of vandalism being abrogated.

The flooding of some 42,000 acres of land, ruining one of the most beautiful valleys in the province, dispossessing about 8,000 people of their homes, is surely the wickedest project ever thought up by a group of money-crazy politicians for the ruination of their own country, and all for the temporary and altogether dubious financial profit that may accrue.

Red Infiltration

It is interesting to note the Commie infiltration of a legitimate parade of workers. One banner read, "Peace provides work," another banner read, "Build cargo ships instead of warships."

It occurs to me that the most unsophisticated shipyard worker would know that there is a great deal more work and therefore employment in a warship, so it seems to me this banner had other purposes than to stimulate employment.

Single Criterion

On the question of South Africa remaining in the Commonwealth or not, surely there is only one criterion. Any nation that breaks its pledge as a member of the United Nations or to the Declaration of Human Rights, has no place in the Commonwealth. Otherwise we condone such behavior.

Ridiculous Performance

Some time ago Premier Bennett visited Victoria College to give a speech. The reception he received was typical of that type of listener, but, they were promised a grant of $1,500,000.

Recently a further promise was made of $2,500,000 toward the building fund of that institution. The appreciation was shown by the ridiculous performance on the steps of the provincial buildings.

Saanich has a shift system for its students. The parents of those children would have been grateful for the assistance to its building program.

Saanich is a growing municipality and will be before long, the most important. You will observe the grants required from it, second only to Victoria.

Saanich schools should be included in Greater Victoria, not partially, but fully to the boundaries. We have the children but not the necessary accommodation. Perhaps the premier could spare a million to help.

Critical Time for Morocco's Ruler

Late King's Shoes Too Big to Fill

By STEPHEN HUGHES

RABAT—The new king of Morocco, Moulay Hassan II, has ascended the throne at a critical time for a monarchy that has lasted for 13 centuries. At the age of 31 he has youth on his side, but in all other respects he begins his reign less well equipped to keep his royal seat than his father, Mohammed V.

Recent history had given Mohammed much of his strength. Sultan since 1927 with a break of two years between August, 1953, and November, 1955, his reign saw his country achieve sovereign independence in 1956 from the French and Spanish who had been the colonial masters of Morocco for 44 years.

Hero as Well

So Mohammed, who was prime minister as well as chief of state and religious leader, was a nationalist hero, too, having suffered a period of exile by the French.

He ruled, as his information minister has said, "by kindness rather than by fear, and by persuasion rather than repression," and he enhanced his people's regard by being simple in his personal habits and accessible to most of them. Testimony to this regard was that more than 1,000,000 Moroccans (about one in 10 of the whole population) came by road, on horseback, and on foot, to his funeral.

Below Surface

Not that Mohammed ruled over a politically placid and contented people. Political feeling simmers beneath the surface calm, but it would have been suicidal for any political party to attack the king, and his personal prestige thus kept the lid on the cauldron.

King Moulay Hassan II has no such protection. He has a "playboy" reputation which he finds hard to bury. He has inherited a right-wing government dominated by the Istiqlal party, but itself torn by dissension. He is also the principal target of the powerful left-wing opposition, led by Mehdi ben Barka, a dynamic young socialist who formed the National Union of Popular Forces in 1959.

Mehdi ben Barka has been

that would suit the ruling Istiqlal party—it would be no more than "an Istiqlal communiqué."

The National Union of Popular Forces demands the election of a national constituent assembly, which they think they would win because they are convinced they already enjoy majority support in Morocco through their own organization and that of their principal ally, the National Labor Federation, the Union Nationale du Travail.

Call for Unity

The Istiqlal has launched an appeal for "national unity" inviting "all political organizations" to make a common front with them to carry on the policies of Mohammed V. This is unlikely to move the NUFF, which has refused on several occasions to join a coalition, mainly because of the presence of Moulay Hassan as his father's vice-premier.

The Istiqlal cannot even present a united front in its own ranks. One of the many causes of dissension within the cabinet is the recent shift toward Soviet Russia made manifest by the arrival of Soviet aid. This was often explained as an attempt by the conservative government to keep the left-wing opposition appeased. But many Moroccans thought it dangerous.

Moulay Hassan II is a persuasive talker and an intelligent negotiator. Lacking at present anything like his father's stature, it will require more than these qualities to weather the storms ahead.

UN Role Vital in Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana called Wednesday for "unflinching" support of United Nations efforts to bring peace to the Congo.

Army Denies U.S. Pullout At Churchill

Birds Sleep, City Cleans

NICE, France (CP) — City officials have decided to put Nice's 10,000 pigeons to sleep — to permit a thorough cleaning of public buildings and statuary. After drugging the pigeons with treated grain, they will transport them to the countryside.

In a communique issued after a White House conference, the two presidents were described as recognizing the UN's vital role in Africa and the importance of co-operation among African countries for the peaceful development of their continent.

MORAL, MATERIAL

The communique continued: "In particular, they are convinced of the need for unflinching and genuine support, both moral and material, of United Nations efforts to bring peace to the people of the Congo and to promote peace and stability in the continent as a whole."

"They also agreed that the nations of Africa should be supported in the development of their natural resources so as to benefit the continent as a whole and provide a promising future for their peoples in full and unfettered freedom."

REITERATE BELIEF

Kennedy and Nkrumah thus reiterated their belief in UN action in the Congo, although Nkrumah told the UN General Assembly in New York Tuesday that changes should be made in the UN's Congo policies.

Longest Hours B.C. Pupils' Lot

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Education Week committee says B.C. students stay in school longer than other Canadians.

Other statistics:

Nine out of every 100 students who start school will graduate from University;

Fifty-two per cent of all students will graduate from secondary school;

Nationally, only six per cent of all students graduate from university, while less than half (47 per cent) graduate from high school.

The committee says B.C.'s school population has expanded at the rate of 14,856 students a year during the last 10 years.

The Chant foyal commission predicts that by 1975 there will be more than 500,000 students in schools. School population in 1960 was 318,821.

Number of schools in the province has been increasing by 26 a year during the last 10 years. School building costs jumped from $15,500,000 in 1951 to $17,600,000 in 1959.

University of Alberta Losing Right to Bodies

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta legislature is considering a bill that would restrict the University of Alberta's power to demand human bodies "not claimed within a reasonable time."

The University Act now calls for every undertaker or public officer having charge of a body "to turn it over to the university or such officers as it may appoint . . ."

China Rejects Kennedy Bid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chinese Communists have rejected the Kennedy administration's initial efforts to seek the release of U.S. prisoners and gain admission to the Red mainland for U.S. newsmen.

The Red Chinese ambassador to Poland, at a Warsaw meeting yesterday, flatly rejected a demand for the release of five Americans.

Plans are under way to convert the Parma, Italy, home of the late Arturo Toscanini into a museum dedicated to the conductor's memory.

Nanaimo May Give Mall Another Whirl

NANAIMO — Provided city council agrees, two blocks on Commercial Street will be turned into a shopping mall for three days in June.

Nanaimo Retail Merchants Association reported that the majority of businessmen in the two blocks favor the shopping mall proposal. The mall will be between Bastion and Terminal This portion of Nanaimo will be closed to traffic during the three-day period.

During shopping mall days, it is proposed to have square dance groups take part in a festival. It is hoped to have stores open until 9 p.m. on the Friday and the Saturday.

The amendment would give the public trustee power to demand the body and arrange for a funeral if money is available either in his estate or from relatives or friends.

Toronto Children Fed

'Thousands Are Hungry'

TORONTO (UPI) — Hungry children joined the lines of the jobless here yesterday, begging for bread.

About 40 children lined up for a meal at the Scott Mission.

The mission opened its doors to children for the first time since the Second World War. "THOUSANDS"

Dr. Morris Zeldman, a Presbyterian minister who runs the mission, said "there are thousands of children hungry in Toronto."

The children were given a bowl of soup, a ham sandwich, ice cream and coffee in the mission's chapel, next door to a large hall where some 500 unemployed workers, among them the fathers of the children, ate their hamburgers and mashed potatoes in three shifts.

"WHAT NEXT?"

While the children ate, pickets circled the building outside calling for government action to cure unemployment. One of the signs read "Chil-

Nature House in Park

$20,000 Project for Miracle Beach

The provincial recreation department will build a $20,000 nature house at Miracle Beach, scheduled for a start in May and completion by spring of 1962.

The new nature house will replace two tent houses that have been used at Miracle Beach Park for the past two years and will be exactly the same as a nature house just completed at Manning Park on the Hope-Princeton highway.

It will measure 50 feet by 32 feet, the roof will be mostly a giant skylight and exterior will be cedar siding.

Salt water from the beach will be piped into three marine aquariums which will be a main feature of the exhibit. Tied in with the nature house will be a nature trail. The nature house will be filled with exhibits of marine, wildlife and forest exhibits to be found in Miracle Beach Park, 14 miles north of Courtenay.

Last summer when the Manning Park and Miracle Beach nature houses operated in tents some 37,000 visitors went through them, an increase of 27 per cent over the previous year.

No final plans have yet been made, but parks officials say a nature house for Goldstream Park is under careful study.

Last-Gasp Goal Stops Head From Tying Marcel's Record

VIEWSON SPORT

By Red Smith

POMPANO BEACH, Fla.—The sun blazed down from a spotless sky, beating on the flannelled figures who courted help on the wire-fenced field which serves as crib and playpen for the infants of the American League, the brand new Washington Senators, tenderly known as the Quesada Mob. From the roof of a one-storey building on the third base line came a shout.

"Hey, up there in the solarium. If you're gonna cover this ball club, always keep your back to the field."

The call came from Moe Siegel, a Jew in the crown of Washington journalism. He was squatting on a camp stool, gazing across the fence toward the high school playground where girls in blue playuits were flinging a ball around.

"One of our farm teams," Moe said.

Mickey Vernon, America's newest manager, was standing near the batting cage watching the putative demigods of the nation's capital. "Hey, Moe," he shouted through cupped hands, "how's the farm club doing?"

"Nothing to nothing," Moe reported.

"Gad," said Shirley Povich, "you mean they can't hit either?"

Only Mickey's Serious

It would be pummeling the obvious to explain that none of this was serious. Nobody is taking matters grimly in this refuge of the unwanted, though Mickey Vernon takes a serious view of his first job as manager, and the oddly assorted characters in residence here are soberly aware that they're bucking for gainful employment in major league baseball, and there's nothing remotely comical in the situation for Gen. Pete Quesada and his crowd, who are betting something like $5,000,000 that they can survive as competitors of the Yankees, Orioles, White Sox, and the rest.

"Mickey," a visitor said, "driving up here this morning somebody said, 'Who's on this nine?' and somebody else said, 'Gene Woodling and Mickey Vernon.' You must have somebody else to show for that $2,100,000 you forked over in the Boston slave mart."

"We've got Pete Burnside, Dick Donovan, and John Gabel," Vernon said. "We've got Tom Sturdivant, Dick Sisler, Ray Semproch, and Johnny Klippstein. There's Dale Long, Billy Klau, R. C. Stevens, and Danny O'Connell. Marty Keough, Willie Tasby, Joe Hickey, Yee, we've got a few."

"There's a kid we picked off the Yankees' list, the left-hander batting now. He swings a nice bat. Zipfel, his name is, Buddy Zipfel. He didn't hit for much of an average in Birmingham last year, .271 I think, but he hit 28 home runs and batted in 107 runs. I'm new at this, but it's my understanding that the idea of the game is to get the runs in."

Rookie Among Managers

Considering that he's been a pro since 1937, it seems reasonable that Vernon might have got a pretty fair grasp on the fundamentals of the game by now. The classy first baseman of the old Senators, twice batting champion of the American League, is a rookie only in the managers' lodge. It was only last year that he was elevated to the brains department as a coach with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"Didn't you ever manage a club before, Mickey? Not even in high schools?"

"Nope. In high school I was always taking part. The manager of a high school team, he rounds up the balls, doesn't he?"

"Mickey was just saying," Shirley Povich volunteered, "what a different view of the game you got from this position. A player concentrates on doing the best he can for himself and for the team. If he knows he won't be coming to bat this inning, maybe his attention wanders a little. Maybe he starts thinking about what he did last inning, instead of studying every pitch."

"That's right," the new manager said. "From here it's a different ball game altogether."

"We've got a third baseman," somebody said, "with more managerial experience than our manager, Harry Bright, he managed Jamestown, Wisc., nine years ago."

"If you had to open the season tomorrow," a guy suggested, "could you hazard a guess about who'd be playing where for you?"

"No," Vernon said. "It's too early to name one guy for any one position. All I can say now is that Woodling would be playing in the outfield."

"None of the big money seems to be around here," a visitor said. "How's Gen Quesada? Is he in camp?"

"He was," Mickey said, "but he had to go back to Washington and then he got sick."

"This, it should be made easier, is not cause and effect. The General has the flu."

New Skiing Area Leased by Birds

First step toward establishment of a brand new skiing ground to serve south and mid-Vancouver Islanders was taken yesterday when the Victoria Sno Birds signed a lease with the E and N Railway for some 500 acres of land on top of Green Mountain, in the Nanaimo area.

Day use will be made of the area this year and construction of a ski cabin and tow is expected to start as soon as snow is off the ground.

Officials said yesterday it is not planned to abandon the club skiing grounds on Mount Brenton, in the Chemainus area, but that area is not high enough, snow is limited there, and it is a timbered area where trees are again starting to grow, making for poor skiing facilities.

The new Green Mountain

sking ground is 30 miles from the Island Highway, along the Nanaimo Lakes road, which is reached just north of the Cassidy bridge over the Island Highway.

Chemainus Chamber of Commerce plans to organize a ski club which will work closely with Victoria Sno Birds and it is hoped Nanaimo skiers will become interested in the new grounds.

It is not now possible to drive to the top of the mountain—a two-mile walk and a 1,000-foot climb is required, but there is talk logging roads now being planned may bring the skiing grounds close enough so a jeep road may be constructed in the future to reach near the mountain top.

Access is gained by use of Crown Zellerbach's Nanaimo Lakes logging road, but that company has assured club members of access under the company's existing access rules. The general public is now allowed into the area on weekends, provided they get a permit at the gate. In fire hazard weather the gates are kept closed.

The Green Mountain grounds will be put to use later this year, when snow has melted on Brenton.

Victoria Sno Birds has 150 members and holds regular weekend ski outings at its present Mount Brenton ski grounds, with visitors welcome.

Third game, and fourth if necessary, will be played the following weekend in Powell River. Series winner meets Trail for the provincial title.

Old Cardinals Together Again

Signing of Red Schoendienst re-united two former teammates and long-time friends on St. Louis Cardinals, and Stan Musial, left, is obviously happy to have the 38-year-old Schoendienst back. Red, who played 10 seasons with Cards before going to Milwaukee, signed for $25,000.

was the British Columbia rink, skipped by Tony Folk that continued to provide the heart-tugging finishes.

The "White Rock" curlers have played six games and won only two. However, the margin of victory or defeat in five of those games was only a single point.

SQUAKEY FINISH

The B.C. representatives lost their fourth game to drop out of contention last night—it was another squeaky finish. Ontario's rink, skipped by Tom Caldwell, won 6-5 in an extra end and after Folk had tied the score on the last regulation end.

Skip Folk beat out seven Ontario stones in the 12th end, forcing the extra end, but Oril away from Northern Ontario, skipped by Jack Polyblank, to win 13-5.

In the afternoon games, Alberta doubled up Quebec, 14-7, and Saskatchewan had a bit of a fight from Polyblank who eventually succumbed, 8-5.

Manitoba's representatives, skipped by John David Lyon of Winnipeg, kept just off the pace of the leading rink by defeating New Brunswick, 13-8, in an evening game. They had sat out the afternoon round with a bye.

Three Players Suspended

Kickers to Post Bond For Soccer Ruckus

By JIM TAYLOR

City soccer officials lowered the boom on Victoria Kickers yesterday as they moved to crack down on rough play and dissent that is slowly but surely spoiling the Victoria and District Football League.

Kickers were ordered to post a $50 good behavior bond with the district league for their part in a ruckus Sunday, and three Kickers received short-term suspensions from the B.C. Soccer Commission.

Referee Maurice Speller forfeited last Sunday's game to Saanich Thistles when Henri Vanderhorst of Kickers refused to leave the field when tossed out of the game for using abusive language to Speller. Jerry Mohl had already been thrown out for the same offence, and Willie Vohlt had been ejected for dangerous play.

Vanderhorst and Mohl both received two-game suspensions, while Vohlt must miss one game. Luckily for Kickers, poor weather in Vancouver has forced postponement of numerous matches, so their suspensions will already have been served by the time a Vancouver team is chosen to meet them in the first round of the Province Cup play-downs. The matches they miss will be in district league play.

HIGHLY DISTURBED

"We were highly disturbed at the actions of Kickers officials in Sunday's game," league secretary Ron Bland said last night. "They walked out on the field to complain at almost every decision that went against their club."

"We have asked the club to post a $50 good behavior bond before their next scheduled appearance," he added. "They are a good soccer club and don't have to resort to such tactics, but this is their third offence this season and the third time we've had to warn them."

SUSPENSIONS STICK

Kickers have asked league officials to meet with them tonight, but the suspensions and the peace bond will stick regardless of the outcome of the meeting.

Referee-baiting and rough play have become all too common in the league this season, and officials feel it is time they cracked down once and for all. Kickers have not been the only offenders by any means, but have been involved in the most flagrant cases.

"This is the biggest and best season we have ever had," Bland said last night. "Incidents like this could spoil the whole thing, and we just can't let it happen."

Packed Park Sees Hotspur Close In on Soccer Double

LONDON (Reuters) — Tottenham Hotspur, hottest favorites in years to win the English Football Association challenge cup, reached the semi-finals here Wednesday night by crushing second-division Sunderland 5-0.

Nearly 65,000 fans packed

Tottenham's stadium for the sixth-round replay.

The Spurs have a big lead at the top of the league's first division, and now are only two games away from a cup triumph.

Tottenham now meets Burnley in the semi-finals March 18. Leicester City meets Sheffield United in the other semi-finals. Leicester beat third-division Barnsley, 2-1, in overtime in their sixth-round replay at Barnsley Wednesday.

A goal after 17 minutes of overtime put Leicester ahead for good and ended a great bid by the giant-killers from the third division. Cup fever ran high at both games, with crowds lining up hours before the start of the Barnsley contest and thousands turned away at Tottenham.

Heavy wrought iron gates twice were burst open by fans trying to get into Tottenham's White Hart Lane, and for a time there was chaos in the dark streets outside the

CLARENCE CAMPBELL... not ready yet

Coast Franchises 'Impossible'

No NHL Expansion Now

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Wednesday he feels the NHL is not yet ready for expansion.

"Expansion is something that all progressive organizations look to, sooner or later, but my personal opinion is that hockey isn't ready for it," Campbell said in an interview.

"Beyond one exploratory pass by west coast men at the NHL annual meeting last June, there hasn't been a single concrete move that would suggest the league owners should look to new horizons at the moment."

Campbell, commenting on reports that groups in Los Angeles and San Francisco plan to appeal to him for NHL franchises in 1961-62, said: "Impossible. Any franchise appeal is a matter for the board of governors and the owners, but I can safely say (they aren't going to welcome new members without a full-scale study.

"Mind you, I can only speak for myself. I have absolutely no authority to rule NHL expansion or rule against it. This is strictly a matter for the six club owners.

"But you just don't go around tossing franchises here and there on the strength of newspaper stories and reports of major hockey membership desires of sports groups."

Ranger Hopes Fade Gump Worsley Hurt

NEW YORK — Chicago Black Hawks rifled two second-period goals past emergency goalie Joe Schaefer last night and beat New York, 4-3, to virtually eliminate Rangers from the National Hockey League playoff picture.

Schaefer, 36-year-old printer who has served Rangers for eight seasons as a practice and emergency goalie, was called in after Lorne Worsley suffered a spasm of the hamstring muscle as he turned to stop a shot by Bobby Hull in the first period. Worsley had to be carried off the ice, and will likely miss tonight's game against Montreal Canadiens.

Chicago's victory left Hawks one point short of clinching third place and the Rangers one point from elimination.

New York would have to win its last five games while Detroit lost five in order to squeeze into a fourth-place tie.

Schaefer went into the nets with the score tied 1-1 and less than seven minutes left in the first period. Tod Sloan sent Chicago ahead before the per-

ALL APPREHENSIVE

"We can't upset the traditions of generations in a single day or a single year," he said, "but we are all apprehensive.

Baseball is the life blood of some of our communities. They sleep for 10 months and then blossom in the spring."

"Last year 306,000 attended 143 grapefruit games in Florida. Presence of the baseball teams lured other thousands into the state. This is something we can't jeopardize."

One solution is to set up a private headquarters, such as Los Angeles Dodgers have maintained at Vero Beach, a former air base for years. The Yankees are seriously considering a move to Fort Lauderdale.

WOULD HAVE FOLLOWED

One executive said: "We were watching St. Petersburg. If the St. Petersburg hotels had given in to Dan Topping's demands, we would have followed suit."

When Dan Topping and general manager Roy Hamey called St. Petersburg to request a "one-roof" arrangement, the reply was a polite but firm no.

Maniago Gets Call To Tend Soccer Goal

TORONTO (CP) — Cesare Maniago, hockey goalkeeper with Toronto Maple Leafs, may be the first player to sign up with the new Eastern Canadian Professional Soccer League, formed less than a week ago.

Italia is the team that wants him to mind its nets.

Punch Imlach, general manager and coach of the National Hockey League Leafs, said Tuesday night it is not the club's policy to prevent players from taking part in other sports during the off season except where the seasons overlap.

A spokesman for Italia said Maniago could be made a soccer player in four weeks.

While Rest Stay in New Hotel

Boarding House for Negroes

By WILL GRIMSLEY

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Mrs. K. W. Gibson's boarding house at 211 Ninth Avenue is a modest, spotlessly clean two-story dwelling which stands out sharply in the dilapidated Negro section of Bradenton.

Mrs. Gibson prides herself on "setting the best table in town."

The grey-haired widow for years has been house mother for the Negro members of Milwaukee Braves baseball team.

"I've treated them like my own sons," she says.

The white members of the team, meanwhile, have had their headquarters in a Bradenton hotel. This year they moved into a new motel in the center of town.

At Mrs. Gibson's place, the Negro players have basic comfort and "eat high on the hog," as the saying goes. Yet they sleep two to a room, queue up for use of the two bathrooms and sometimes bicker over the choice of a television program on the single set in the living room.

This is a crux of a widening problem in the Florida camps of 13 major league baseball teams, which this year takes 100 or more Negro athletes to warmer climes for conditioning.

The other five major league teams have no segregation problem in their Arizona and California camps.

LEAD FIGHT

Dr. Robert Wimbley, a young Negro physician who is chapter chairman of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in St. Petersburg, called on New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals, two clubs which train in St. Petersburg, to lead a fight to end discrimination against the Negro in the southern camps.

Dan Topping, president of the Yankees, issued a formal statement saying he wanted the same treatment for all his players, colored or white, and preferred that they be quartered "under one roof." During the regular season, all clubs quarter their players together.

A reporter's survey of the grapefruit circuit showed hotel managements are generally jumpy and shy about discussing the issue.

Gridders Seek Some Support

Victoria Minor Canadian Football Association is holding a dance Friday at 9 p.m. at White Eagle Hall to promote interest in the annual Little Grey Cup game, first of which was played here last fall. Any surplus funds will be used to set up a midlevel league for Greater Victoria.

Lions, Blue Bombers Cancel Iowa Exhibition

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Lions' projected exhibition football game against Winnipeg Blue Bombers in Des Moines, Iowa, has been abandoned.

Lions president Ralph Henderson said Wednesday night the Des Moines promoters have refused to give the teams a minimum guarantee. Without a guarantee, the two Western Football Conference clubs prefer not to make the trip.

However, even without this game, the Lions will play four exhibitions before they open the regular season here Aug. 7.

The first will be July 20 in Toronto against the Argonauts.

Subject to confirmation by Hamilton general manager Jake Gaudaur, they'll play the Tiger-Cats at Empire Stadium July 24. This was the game originally billed for July 19, but pushed back when it was discovered the Vancouver International Festival tattoo will be occupying Empire Stadium that night. The Lions expect the confirmation today.

They move to Seattle July 29 for a game against Saskatchewan Roughriders at the University of Washington stadium, a highlight of Seattle Sea Fair's opening day activities.

Final exhibition will be Aug. 1 when the Grey Cup champion Ottawa Rough Riders return to the scene of their 16-6 triumph against Edmonton Eskimos last Nov. 26.

Playboy Duke Engaged To Quiet, Unknown Girl

Sailing Club Compulsion Uncovered

OTTAWA (UPI)—A preliminary investigation has shown that "some degree of compulsion" was used to get members of the Canadian Guards at Camp Petawawa, Ont., to join the regiment's sailing club, Defence Minister Harkness said yesterday.

The inquiry also indicated that information given army headquarters on the subject was "not accurate," he said.

In view of these "serious" developments, he told the Commons, a formal board of inquiry has been convened.

Fitness Program Expanded in Sidney

Response to a physical fitness program for Sidney youngsters, sponsored jointly by SANSCLA and the YM-YWCA, has been such that the plan is being continued and expanded.

The free trial-run closes Friday after four weeks. It began with 60 children from 9 to 14 years old, and winds up with more than twice that number taking part in games, exercises, floor hockey, trampolines and other body-building activities.

The joint program got under way with the "Y" having the equipment and instructors and North Saanich the children and the hall.

Second phase of the program starts March 17, when the junior group will resume its program to last eight weeks at a cost of $1.25 per child. At 6:30 p.m. a program for teen-agers from 14 to 18 will be launched to include body-building, square dancing, wrestling, gymnastics, basketball and volleyball.

Charge for this eight-week course will also be $1.25 each.

LONDON (UPI)—The Duke of Kent, fast-driving and party-loving first cousin of the Queen, will marry a quiet girl who likes classical music, it was announced Wednesday.

Buckingham Palace said the 25-year-old duke, eighth in succession to the throne and Britain's most eligible bachelor, will marry 28-year-old Kathleen Worsley, daughter of Sir William and Lady Worsley.

LIKE ANTONY

Miss Worsley, almost as unknown to the British public as Antony Armstrong-Jones before his marriage to Princess Margaret last year, likes to ride horses and play the piano.

The duke likes fast sports cars—"100 miles an hour suits me," he once said.

Queen Elizabeth "has gladly given her consent" to the match, it was announced. Date and place of the wedding will be announced shortly.

FANCY PARTY

The couple met at a fancy dress party four years ago. At that time—before he began to take his army career seriously—he was known as the playboy duke.

He had earned the title. It was 1957 and the duke had just cracked up his $6,000, 120-mile-an-hour Aston Martin. The duke wasn't hurt but the car had to be towed away.

THREE ACCIDENTS

But in June 1954 he was severely injured when his station wagon had a head-on collision. Five months later his first sports car was wrecked—but the duke escaped harm. Eight months after that the duke spent a week in the hospital, after his sports car plunged into a ditch.

Fast U.S. Treaty Action Might Help Canada Settle

WASHINGTON (CP)—Fast ratification of the Canada-United States Columbia River treaty might help the Canadian government meet its problems with British Columbia, the U.S. Senate foreign relations committee was told Wednesday.

Questioned on whether Premier Bennett of B.C. might oppose the 60-year treaty, Ivan White, U.S. deputy assistant state secretary, said a provincial representative was present throughout the negotiations.

BEST COURSE

White suggested that if there are differences between the Canadian federal and provincial governments "the best course we can pursue is let them work out their problems domestically."

In a recent report, the B.C. Energy Board recommended ratification be delayed pending clarification of certain factors in the Canada-U.S. pact which would harness the Columbia for power and flood control and give the two countries a huge new block of low-cost power. British Columbia would build three big dams and get half the power from this new source, as well as cash for flood control.

NO ADVANTAGE?

At the end of 2-hour hearing committee chairman J. William Fulbright (Dem.-Ark.) sought assurances from Interior Secretary Stewart Udall, White and others that Canada had not gained any advantage over the U.S. in treaty negotiations.

"You must remember they (the Canadians) are much better off than we are," he told Udall. "I hope that was taken into consideration."

Udall said he hadn't participated in the negotiations and Canada might have taken advantage "but in our view there was fair play on both sides."

"We did a good, hard job of bargaining."

Mass Death Ordered

LONDON (Reuters)—A court in Soviet Estonia Wednesday heard testimony that an Estonian now living in Britain ordered the shooting of 1,000 men, women and children in his country in 1942.

The Soviet news agency Tass reported from the Estonian city of Tallin.

Witness Friedrich Anjala, a guard in a wartime Estonian concentration camp, said that Aln Erwin Mere ordered the shooting in September, 1942, of a trainload of prisoners arriving from Nazi Germany.

Mere is being tried in absentia on charges of mass wartime killings.

Britain has refused to extradite Mere, who has described the charge as "completely false."

Franco Is the Cork In Fizzing Spain

Alan Harvey, chief of CP's London Bureau, reports here on a tour of Spain.

By ALAN HARVEY
(First of a Series)

MADRID (CP)—Thirty million passionate people are waiting for the cork to be pulled out of the fizzy bottle that is Franco Spain. They are waiting, and fearing. The stopper in the bottle is General Francisco Franco, a wintry little man on a white horse, and there may be an explosion when he goes.

Or there may not. A personal forecast is that there will be confusion, perhaps chaos, but little bloodshed. The legions of maimed men, diminishing now, recall what happened last time brother fought brother. Nobody wants another civil war.

Franco runs a totalitarian regime and few have any fondness for him, but in his cold, unlovable way he represents values cherished by a static society.

That is the drama of Spain. They don't like him and they can't let him go.

The visitor's strongest impression may be of a clinging conservatism. Tradition has the strength of steel in a predominantly agricultural country that has never known the softening influences of the Protestant Reformation, that reacts truculently and instinctively against anything threatening home, family and—above all—religion.

TALK FREELY

The political atmosphere seems less oppressive. People talked freely of Franco, even in public places, but none admitted sharing Republican sentiments during the civil war.

How bad is Franco, really? British editor Ian Gilmour says the regime in rejoining Europe is like a prostitute trying to be a nun.

Observers seasoned in Spanish politics temper their criticisms of the austere, puritanical generalissimo. For some, this is a comfortable society. The diplomatic carousel goes round and round in tasteful apartments; maids are cheap, diplomats live in the millionaires' section of Madrid and have swimming pools in their gardens.

DIFFERENT

Allowing for such possible bias, there still seems a feeling that Spain is "different," a case apart. It has never had a strong middle class and workers are not well organized. When there were elections, in the first quarter of the century, they were usually "arranged."

Spaniards themselves say they are unruly and need a tough boss. Franco, single-minded, devout, with the military man's belief in iron discipline, sincerely believes he has divine blessing.

Theosophist Lecture

The Theosophical Society will hear a lecture by Mrs. Dorothy Harrison, secretary of Besant Lodge, in a meeting at 902 Government Street at 7.45 p.m. Sunday.

He rules subtly, distributing judicious concessions to the groups that keep the intricate wheels of his coalition in motion. Army, church, big business and labor organizations are kept carefully in line. As soon as a personality emerges, Franco chops him down to size.

Strikes are now classified as crimes of military rebellion.

Bright spirits suffer in Spain. Lacking outlets in a manipulated society, the talented and energetic feel themselves "superfluous men."

MONARCHY?

What happens next? Technically, Franco is committed to a monarchy, but some see him holding office as long as there is breath left in him.

The pretender to the throne is 47-year-old Don Juan of Bourbon, a great-grandson of Queen Victoria. He waits patiently, indifferent to reports that Franco is "grooming" the pretender's son, 22-year-old Don Juan Carlos, for the job.

A forecast is that in three to six years, Franco will hand over to a prefabricated regime, headed by a strong prime minister who would be given a term of five years in a bid for stability.

Meanwhile Spain waits, chafing yet apathetic, straining at the leash but seeing no escape.

Standard Sizes?

All Dairies Asked View On Cartons

Dairies will have a chance to voice their opinions next week on the milk carton controversy.

The legislature's agriculture committee, instructed to recommend whether milk sale should be restricted to cartons in standard Imperial sizes, is sending invitations to all dairies to attend next week's meetings.

A feud has been raging between the provincial government and Milky Way Dairy of Saanich, because the dairy sells milk in 64-ounce "family-size" cartons—a U.S. gallon.

LONDON (UPI)—Opponents of Francisco Franco will meet in Paris March 25 to urge an amnesty for Spanish political prisoners and exiles.

"Twenty full years after the end of the civil war, Spain still holds thousands of her countrymen in prison," the group said. "Tens of thousands of Spaniards, among them eminent intellectuals of international repute, are exiled from the country."

The conference will be attended by members of all political parties, trade unionists, and intellectuals.

Even Ike Communist To Ultra Tories

DMITRI SHOSTAKOVITCH ... seeks new Cliburn

WASHINGTON—Republican Sen. Milton Young of North Dakota told the Senate that leaders of an ultra-conservative and semi-secret group operating in many states have accused former President Eisenhower of being a Communist.

Young said the John Birch Society claims to be fighting Communism and has accused Young himself of being about every kind of a scoundrel, including a Communist or pro-Communist.

He said the leader is Robert Welch, retired business executive of Belmont, Mass. The society is named for a U.S. naval captain killed by Chinese Communist guerrillas.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he has heard of the group in his own state and "something is wrong somewhere."

MOSCOW — Soviet composer Dmitri Shostakovich invited talented young musicians from all over the world to take part in the second Tchaikovsky international competition in April and May, 1962. Pianist Van Cliburn won the first.

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy said he would like to see a lessening of tension between the U.S. and Communist China but "we are not prepared to surrender" to get it.

OTTAWA — Mrs. Yuet Louie, 39, Chinese-born mother of a 29-month-old Canadian son, has decided to take the boy with her when she goes back to Hong Kong this month under a deportation order. She lost a Supreme Court appeal of the order.

MIAMI — "Flying grand father" Max Conrad, 57, completed his round-the-world flight in eight days, 18 hours and 49 minutes, breaking the old record for light planes by more than 20 days.

OTTAWA — Acting Prime Minister Howard Green said he hopes it will be possible for Prime Minister Macmillan to address a joint session of the Commons and Senate during his visit here April 8-12.

LONDON — Film actress Elizabeth Taylor is on the road to recovery from a nearly fatal bout of double pneumonia, her doctors say.

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. — Joseph Grady, long-time power in the Republican party who died recently at 88, left most of his $18,000,000 estate to charity—and not one cent for politics.

LONDON — Sir Winston Churchill said goodbye to his wife—resting at a London hospital—before his departure for a Caribbean cruise.

LONDON — Police charged Edwin Bush, 31, with the murder of Mrs. Kate Baines in an antique shop last week. She was the wife of Mark Baines, president of the Royal Society of Sculptors.

WASHINGTON — The Senate overrode sharp opposition and approved the controversial nomination of Alabama segregationist Charles McCreath as a director of the Export-Import Bank.

PARIS — Max Hymans, wartime resistance leader and former president of the French Air Force, died at 61.

NEW YORK — Actress Marilyn Monroe, only two days out of hospital where she was treated for "emotional upset," joined ex-husband Arthur Miller at the funeral of his mother.

TORONTO — Canada's comedy team of Wayne and Shuster has been signed for a summer TV show for CBS. Holiday Hotel, summer replacement for Jack Benny, will mark the first time in their 22 years someone else has written the script.

Britain Seeks Calm

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Britain was reported Wednesday to have assumed an important role in negotiations aimed at avoiding some explosive East-West issues in the resumed session of the 15th United Nations General Assembly.

British Minister of State David Ormsby-Gore met Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko privately on the situation.

LITTLE HAPPENING — Little is happening on the floor of the assembly itself. In the only meeting of the day, the assembly failed in 20 ballots to elect a new member to the economic and social council. The 20th ballot showed 46 for India and 45 for Belgium and further voting was postponed.

FINDS SUPPORT — A U.S. spokesman said his delegation had found considerable interest and support in its drive to eliminate the Soviet Union's resolution on general and complete disarmament. The spokesman said that if all cold-war and non-essential items could be knocked out of the agenda the assembly could wind up in less than four weeks. Previous estimates ran to about six weeks—or longer—and many delegates hold to their original estimates.

Britain Grants Self Rule

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain Wednesday promised its uneasy Mediterranean colony of Malta a new constitution to give its inhabitants again a very substantial degree of self government.

Malta has been under the direct rule of British governor Sir Guy Grantham since April 30, 1958, following the resignation of the majority government of Prime Minister Dom Mintoff.

Colonial Secretary Iain Macleod told Parliament the government had decided to accept a constitution proposed by a four-man commission. It calls for an elected assembly and a cabinet of not more than seven ministers for the Maltese. The governor would retain police power.

Reeve Hahn

Socreds Pick Former MP For 'Vital Vote'

A candidate for the national Social Credit leadership, Reeve George Hahn of Surrey last night won nomination as the party's candidate for the Esquimalt-Saanich federal by-election.

"It remains to you to prove that British Columbians are not happy with the government we have in Ottawa," he told 129 voting delegates at the convention in Mount View High School.

IN YOUR HOMES

"I hope to come and meet you individually, in your little groups, in your homes, with your friends," he said.

Mr. Hahn was MP for New Westminster for five years from 1953. He was elected reeve of Surrey last year.

He defeated Tom Irwin, former Speaker of the provincial legislature, and Victoria Fuel dealer Clarence Ellis to win the nomination.

Mr. Ellis was eliminated on the first ballot and Mr. Hahn and Mr. Irwin tied on the second ballot.

BEGAN BADLY

The convention began badly when many of the delegates and Premier and Mrs. Bennett went to Mount Newton school by mistake. Mrs. Sue Spears, wife of Cariboo M.L.A. William Spears, filled the delay by conducting community singing. Addressing the convention, Premier Bennett predicted the by-election will be called soon.

Hospitals Not 'Dump' For Elderly

EDMONTON (CP)—Auxiliary hospitals in Alberta are not intended to be dumping grounds for elderly persons whose families no longer recognize the responsibility in caring for them.

Dr. J. Donovan Ross, provincial health minister, Wednesday told the Alberta legislature a three-phase admission program is to be instituted in an attempt to forestall this practice, which could become the single greatest problem in connection with the hospitals.

Fine Cutting, Fine Nuances, Fine Fun

Education week is every week during fall and winter for thousands of adults who attend night school classes sponsored by Greater Victoria school board. Mrs. Wendy Foord, 269 View Royal, performs delicate cutting operation on silver leaf that will be fashioned into pendant. Jewelry class is held Tuesdays at S. J. Willis.

Chinese is easy if you stick by the rules, says Rev. Andrew Ng, shown at the blackboard during his Monday night class in Cantonese at Victoria High School. Pupil Lawrence Macrae, 1716 Fort, has been at task nearly seven years, now has working knowledge of language. He expects 10 years' study will give him fluency.

First try at dressmaking took 10 weeks of spare time effort but earned husband's praise for Mrs. Pam Singer, 2898 Phyllis. With an adopted baby to sew for as well as herself, she enrolled last fall in night classes with some misgivings, now enjoys weekly Monday sessions at Victoria High School. —(Colonist photos.)

B. C. Gillie, principal of S. J. Willis Junior High School, will discuss the Chant report on education at a meeting of the Victoria Optimist Club at 12.10 p.m. today in the Yarrow Building.

New Conditions —New Demands

As society is faced with changing conditions such as automation and launching of space satellites, new demands are made upon the public educational system, a school teacher said here last night.

Vernon Dawson, a mathematics and science teacher and counsellor at S. J. Willis Junior High School, said in an Education Week speech to the Chinatown Lions Club that these things were factors which may have helped bring about the Chant royal commission on education.

STUDY SYSTEM

A number of forces were at work during the past 10 years to point up the need for an

City Gets Word: No Gutter Now

Capital Improvement District Commission is "not prepared to entertain" at this time a city council proposal that it undertake construction of curb and gutter along the north side of Richardson below Government House, it informed council yesterday.

More Blood Needed Clinic Closes Today

Red Cross officials expressed pleasure yesterday at a total of 387 pints of blood given during the first two days of a three-day blood clinic but said a lot more is needed.

The Red Cross gives 150 pints of blood a day to B.C. hospitals and the need is always present, a spokesman said.

Red Cross House on Fort Street will be open to donors from 2.30 to 4.30 p.m. and from 7 to 9.30 today. There were 212 donors Tuesday and 175 donors yesterday.

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Members of the Chant commission are not qualified to report on British Columbia's educational system, a Saanich councillor charged last night.

"I don't think you can produce an authoritative report unless you are an authority," said Coun. Gregory Cook. "Members of the commission were, at best, well-intentioned critics."

"They have neither experience nor adequate background to give validity to such a report."

EARLIER CRITICISM

Coun. Cook, an industrial arts teacher at Belmont High School with 22 years' teaching experience, was amplifying criticism he made earlier in the week at a Saanich council meeting.

The commissioners were Prof. S. N. F. Chant, dean of the faculty of arts and science at the University of B.C.; John E. Liersch of the Powell River Co., and Riley Paul Walrod, general manager of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd.

COULD CAUSE HARM

In a free-wheeling attack on the report itself, Coun. Cook said legislation to implement a number of changes in education as recommended by the Chant report could harm B.C.'s school system.

"Bill 46 (now before the legislature) if passed in its present form would make it possible for any school board to remove any principal from his job without even giving a reason," he said.

"It wouldn't take much of this kind of legislation to reduce the teaching force to low-grade civil servants."

ATTACKS TESTS

Division of students between high school and vocational school, based on tests, could mean parents of students who fail the tests would have to pay for private tuition, he claimed.

"Only a moron would expect to be able to determine with any reasonable degree of success how successful a child will be in his high school years. So much depends upon human factors not really measurable."

TIMES CHANGED

"The Chant report wants to get back to the narrow outlook of the old classics type of education, disregarding the fact that times have changed," he continued.

"Some form of practical education—which gives breadth—is part of our tradition."

11th Term

Re-elected for the 11th successive year as chairman of the Victoria Advisory Planning Commission appointed by city council is Maj. H. Cuthbert Holmes. Also re-elected this week were A. J. Saunders, first vice-chairman, and Col. J. R. Kingham, second vice-chairman.

Campbell on Schools:

Best Bargain In B.C. Today

School trustees' and teachers' federations were accused yesterday of "sitting on the fence" and refusing to go out to sell B.C. taxpayers that education was the biggest bargain going in the province today.

Dan Campbell (SC-Conox), a school teacher before he became a politician, said the B.C. School Trustees' Association and the B.C. Teachers' Federation had a golden opportunity to stand up and be counted.

PARENTS ACCUSED

And he accused parents of being the chief offenders in causing the thinking that an individual pupil had failed if he wound up in a general education program instead of specialized courses.

Education in B.C. was indeed a bargain, he said.

Very few people were paying more than $100 of the $340 it cost to educate each pupil annually.

"Thousands are actually picking up this bargain for a dollar," said Mr. Campbell.

While it was true that the government was paying 53 per cent of the cost of education and local governments the other 47 per cent, if the $50 homeowner grant was taken into account the percentage of the government contribution rose to 62 per cent and municipalities 38 per cent.

NOWHERE ELSE

"There is absolutely no place on the North American continent where local taxpayers are getting such a bargain at so reasonable a cost," declared Mr. Campbell. "The B.C. School Trustees' Association and the B.C. Teachers' Federation have a golden opportunity to stand up and be counted, and sell the public that it's getting the best bargain in the province today."

Menacing Scow Found, Towed In

CAMPBELL RIVER — A $25,000 scow which drifted menacingly into sea lanes overnight was found yesterday near Elk Bay, 23 miles north of here, by owner John Humphries, and towed to Campbell River.

Mr. Humphries and his helper, Robert Grant, were rescued from the scow Tuesday after fleeing the tug Humphries VI, which burned and sank. The scow was the object of frantic air-sea search.

Later yesterday Mr. Humphries left for Kanish Bay, north of Seymour Narrows, in an attempt to salvage the Humphries VI.

Peter Bruton's Capital Notebook

WAY OUT WEST: Before a newcomer to these shores can receive his Canadian citizenship papers he must go through an exhaustive process testing his knowledge of this country's history and geography.

It's a pity the same test isn't applied to employees of the citizenship and immigration department in Ottawa.

A Scots girl of our acquaintance has been in Canada for about 10 years and recently took out her citizenship papers.

She was somewhat shocked when she received them. There, typed for all to see on her citizenship certificate, was her name and the address, "Victoria Island, B.C."

"Admittedly I didn't know Vancouver Island existed when I first arrived in Canada," she told us in her soft Scots burr. "But at least there was some excuse for me..."

Promise in House

University Won't Lose Unused Grant

Victoria University will not lose any of its $500,000 capital construction grant because it has been unable to spend it during the current fiscal year.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson made that promise yesterday in answer to a question from Waldo Skilling (SC-Victoria). "Normally it would lose... This year they haven't made full use of the $500,000 and we are making arrangements so the cheque will be issued before the end of the fiscal year," Mr. Peterson said.

NO MUZZLING

He also assured Mr. Skilling there had been no muzzling or discouragement of free and open discussion of the Chant report.

In reply to another question from Mr. Skilling, Mr. Peterson said meetings are taking place; but the future relationship of University of British Columbia and Victoria University has not yet been decided.

FEDERAL TASK

Mr. Skilling agreed with Alan Padelford (L-Oak Bay) that education should be a federal responsibility, the same as national defence.

Sign Law Faces Test in Courts

A legal test may be in store for part of Victoria's new sign bylaw.

Clifford S. Vickery, who last week appeared before the private bills committee of the legislature to oppose a section of a bill clearly establishing the city's right to control wall signs, has painted a wall sign on a Douglas Street building, according to the city building department, without a permit and in violation of bylaw restrictions.

"I'm not a lawbreaker," Mr.

Vickery said last night. "But I don't think they have the right (to regulate painted wall signs) and I would prefer that they take it to court and see if they have the right."

Gagliardi Observes:

False Safety Sense Given to Children

Highways Minister Gagliardi, commenting on a petition from 300 residents calling for a reduction of the speed limit on the Upper Levels Highway in North Vancouver to 30 miles an hour from 50, made these remarks:

"A boy hit at 30 miles an hour is just as dead as a boy hit at 50."

"Today there is too much of a protectionist attitude on the part of parents. It creates a false sense of safety in the mind of a child."

"They aren't taught the proper appreciation of a motor vehicle. Consequently they feel the motorist is going to watch out for them, is going to stop for them."

However, he promised to take a "long" look at the request.

W. H. Day, president of the B.C. Safety Conference, said the minister's remarks are "pretty irresponsible."

"You can't discuss this matter in generalities. I don't know what parents tell their kids."

IT'S NEWS TO ME: We

only found out yesterday that some of the five per cent sales tax we all have to pay flows into the pockets of the retailer... and it's strictly legal.

Seems that anyone who collects sales tax on behalf of the provincial government—whether it be an individual or a store—is entitled to retain three per cent of the total tax collected.

This is a sort of collection fee.

An increasing number of families are rediscovering the delights of home baked bread. Typical of the many tempting recipes that can be made with surprising ease by even a novice.

In the kitchen, is this one for cat bun loaf. The recipe makes three, large and moist loaves with a delicious, old-fashioned flavor.

What's Cooking!

Here Today—Gone Today Home-Made Bread Story

The American author Louis Bromfield, once said that the story of bread is the story of civilization itself. Bread began when the half-savage animals that were primitive man stopped roaming the wilderness, surfeited one day and starving the next. With the coming of bread, man could know that he would eat because his food did not depend upon the vagaries of the chase.

In all art since the beginning of time, wheat and bread, and the making of bread have been shown in paintings, in wall carvings, in picture writing and in sculpture. The head of bearded wheat has been a motif and a decoration on the shields of kings and the palaces of the nobility and rich merchants. Today, bread still graces the tables of the rich and the poor alike, for man with his skills and power has made bread a part of life of even the poorest citizen, as well as a delicacy on the table of the gourmet.

Nowadays, an increasing number of families are rediscovering the delights of home baked bread. This recipe for Cat Bun Loaf makes three, large and moist loaves with a delicious, old-fashioned flavor. It makes wonderful toast, and a wholesome, between-meal snack, topped with butter or margarine and a little honey.

OAT BUN LOAF

(Yield—3 loaves)

One and a half cups rolled oats, 1 tablespoon salt, ½ cup lightly-packed brown sugar, ½ cup butter or margarine, 2½ cups boiling water, ½ cup lukewarm water, 2 teaspoons granulated sugar, 2 envelopes active dry yeast, 6 cups (about) pre-sifted all-purpose flour.

Measure rolled oats into a large bowl; add salt, brown sugar and butter or margarine; stir in boiling water. Cool to lukewarm.

Meantime, measure lukewarm water; stir in the 2 teaspoons sugar. Sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well. Stir dissolved yeast and 2 cups of the flour into rolled oat mixture. Beat until smooth and elastic. Work in sufficient additional flour to make a stiff dough—about 4 cups more. Turn out dough onto a floured board or canvas and knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl. Grease top. Cover. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk—about 1½ hours. Punch down dough. Turn out onto a lightly-floured board or canvas and knead until smooth. Divide dough into 3 equal portions. Shape each portion into a smooth ball. Place on greased cookie sheets. Grease tops and sprinkle with a little rolled oats. Cover with a tea towel. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk—about 45 minutes. Bake in a hot oven (400 deg. F.) for 25 or 30 minutes.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: That woman who complained because her sister-in-law brought a steak over every Friday night while the rest of the family ate fish, gave me the courage to write you this letter.

My sister married out of her religion. We grew up with no bacon, ham or pork in the house. She knows Mama and Papa don't eat these foods. Whenever she has the folks for dinner she prepares fish for them. But for her own family she fixes a pork roast, liver and bacon or a baked ham.

The folks never say anything but I'm sure they feel hurt. Why does my sister do this? Once I asked her and she became angry and said, "A person is free to do whatever he pleases in his own home." Do you think she is right?—WONDERING.

Dear Wondering: Your sister's behavior is immature and disrespectful. Her parents are well aware that she has left the religion. They needn't be hit over the head with a pork roast or a slab of bacon as a gentle reminder.

Your sister does this to prove she is no longer under her parents' control. Guilt is always accompanied by feelings of doubt and insecurity.

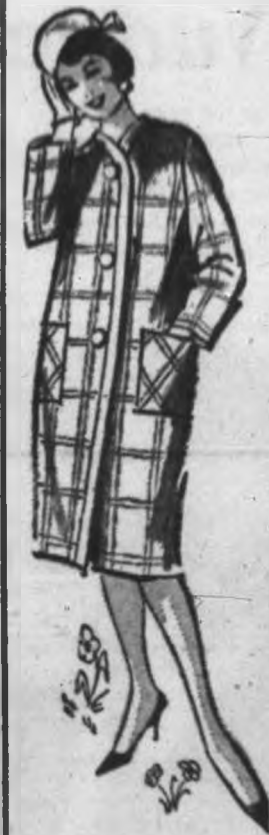

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a high school teacher who wanted to know what to do about a girl student who imagined herself in love and became quite a poet. I'm a high school teacher who once had a similar problem. This is how I managed it. When I started to teach music a few young girls began to hang around after class.

Some would phone during the evening and a couple actually dropped in on me at home.

I sensed I was on the spot and decided to date more often and bring the young ladies to every school function. This made it plain—I was interested only in girls my age and the young students soon became less romantically inclined. J.L.

To learn the difference between a real date and a school date, and how to get the most out of a date, read the book "The Art of Dating" by John H. Johnson. It's a book that will help you with your problems. Send them to me in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Romantic Millinery A-Bloom with Roses

Everybody's gone high hat this year in the most romantic way, with roses, roses everywhere.

"A rose is a rose is a hat," Gertrude Stein might have said if she had been to the YWCA champagne show and coffee parties held in the afternoon and evening yesterday.

Four commentators held forth in four rooms at the "YW" and six models paraded from lounge to lounge in creations from Toojays.

The six models, Mrs. Sheila Morgan, Mrs. Stuart Morgan, Mrs. C. C. Purves, Mrs. D. A. Smith, Mrs. Dean Smith and Miss Georgina Noels, each chose one basic dress for the show—accessorizing each in four different ways.

Sheila Morgan had three of the most striking ensembles. In her navy blue basic sheath, she first appeared in an anytime-of-day high straw navy cloche whipped around in tulle and trimmed in French roses. Later she appeared in a romantic hat of palest pink, a rose tucked in at the side, again swathed in a cloud of tulle.

"And this is the French look, emphasizing three color points," said the commentator as Sheila made a final appearance in a tall, tall hat of smoky blue net topped by green leaves, and to match the leaves, bright elbow-length green gloves.

Dark-eyed, dark-haired Georgina Noels, slim and striking in her basic frock of beige first chose a froth of jade green chiffon flowers, then a black cloche with large, softly folded brim, and finally a satin-finished straw with large roses and veil.

Two exquisite "breath of spring" hats, new this season, were modelled. Mrs. C. C. Purves showed a charmer in net, chiffon flowers and green leaves, touched with bronze, with the high lacy crown giving an airy look. Mrs. D. Smith modelled another, a shower of mauve tinted petals, softly veiled in black net.

Guests were received at the door by Mrs. Phyllis Gravelly, director of the "YW," Mrs. A. H. Sheard, president of the YW-YMCA and Mrs. Alan McGill, wife of the past president.

Money raised from the hat and coffee party, will go towards sending four delegates to the YWCA four-yearly convention to be held this year in Wolfville, Nova Scotia.

Social convener of the affair was Mrs. C. C. Purves. Commentators were Mrs. Phyllis Gravelly, Mrs. A. H. Sheard, Mrs. J. B. MacLean and Mrs. Dirk van Maanen.

Canadian fashions are flattering and relaxed this spring, featuring the dropped waistline and shoulder; flared, pleated and sheath skirts, and soft, rolled or cardigan necklines. These styles, modelled at a Toronto fashion show are, left to right, a three-piece taupe brown silk suit with matching blouse; a pale pink two-piece crepe with overblouse and pleated skirt; an emerald green wool suit with side slashes on the jacket and a collarless stand-away neckline. —(CP photo.)

Cross Canada Survey Discloses Most Colorful Spring in Years

By DEIRDRE MUNGovan
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Designers of spring fashions for Canadians are looking at women through multi-colored glasses.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows that almost anything goes this year as long as it is flattering and incorporates the elegance of a relaxed, easy line.

Coast to coast, sleeves are shortened and widened, shoulders dropped, skirts shorter, pockets enlarged and collars discarded.

Everyone agrees that the big fashion news is in fabrics and colors.

A bright shocking pink, sometimes called romance pink or hot pink, dominates the color scene while shades of mint green, sunburst yellow, from banana to canary, pure white, bone and beige take second place. And of course, navy and black are the perennial favorites of the well-dressed woman.

As one Montreal fashion consultant said: "It will be a very, very colorful spring with lots of deep, true colors, especially pink." Most popular color there is a Persian or Cyclamen pink which is fairly deep with a bluish cast.

Costumes in co-ordinated colors that meld or "mix match," dramatic points and abstracts are featuring the lithe look or flowing silhouette with every detail intended to produce an ethereal effect.

Although purple has largely disappeared as a fashionable must, Calgary reports one store expects mauve to last at least until the fall. Another, lar.

however, proposes to follow the trend by bringing in bone colors—creams and off-white—which will blend with the popular pastels, hot colors and beiges.

"Not in the last 10 years have we had such a colorful spring collection," said a department store official in Ottawa.

HINTS FOR FALL

The comfortable look, as the style is called, is said to be just the beginning of a whole new look for the fall. It includes the Ophelia-like dropped waistline, dropped shoulder, flared, box-pleated and soft sheath skirt and the stand-away rolled or cardigan collar.

Chapter Holds Successful Tea

Spring flowers centred the tables at the recent successful spring tea held by members of the Florence Nightingale Chapter, IODE, in the Douglas Room of the Hudson's Bay Company. Mrs. G. C. Baker, regent, received guests, and Mrs. William Herriott was at the door. Mrs. James Baker, Mrs. William Colley and Mrs. Agnes Norrall were in charge of contests.

The home cooking stall, convened by Mrs. G. Neillans, did a thriving business. Assisting were Mrs. Leslie Grant and Mrs. William Blair.

Mrs. Karl Mills, Mrs. F. Menzies and Miss M. Hurst convened the tea, and members of the chapter were servitors.

Special guests at the affair were Councillor and Mrs. James Bryant, Mrs. Owen Fowler, Mrs. Warren Smith, Mrs. Peter Bell and Mrs. Robert Ross.

Next meeting of the chapter will be Monday, March 13 at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Norman Turner, 54 Howe Street. Members are reminded to bring books for the "book shower" for the library of the recently adopted school on Turner Island.

Guild Hears Sudan Talk

Victoria Handweavers' Guild announced plans for the annual sale and exhibition to be held in the Douglas Room, Hudson's Bay store, July 3 to July 8.

At the regular business meeting Mrs. S. Pickles reported on social service work done by Mrs. J. I. Knight, Mrs. H. C. Hartshorne and Miss B. Holmes.

It was decided to hold the Birthday Tea on Saturday, May 13 at Miss M. Murray's home on the Lagoon.

Weaving that had been sent to the Vancouver Guild show was exhibited at the meeting, also recent weaving by Mrs. G. Anstey and Mrs. S. Pickles. Rainbow-striped throws woven and sold for refugee work were much admired.

Mr. Hugh Ross, local weaver who lives on Estevan Street, was a special speaker on "Life, Arts and Crafts in the Sudan."

Administrator of health services in the Sudan for the British Government for 26 years, he spoke of some of the fine markets and crafts including bark, silver, copper, ivory, ebony, woodwork, pottery, and cotton weaving.

Mr. Ross mentioned some of the women were "wonderful sewers and do fine embroidery, counting the threads and creating their own patterns of dainty flower groups in vivid colors."

Mr. Ross met his wife in the Sudan. She was a teacher in the Teacher Training School where the spoken language was Arabic.

"The wedding was in an Anglican church with a Welsh padre, honor-guard formed of Sudanese teachers — and I wore my kilt!" said Mr. Ross.

Since leaving the Sudan, Mr. Ross took up weaving, and he showed a cushion similar to one he made for the Queen Mother. He also wore a suit length for her.

Mrs. W. C. Higgins thanked the speaker.

Africa Set Aside As Premiers Eye World Issues

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Nehru of India initiated a wide-range discussion of East-West relations among leaders of 12 Commonwealth nations yesterday at the opening of the Commonwealth conference.

Prime Minister Macmillan, who normally speaks first on international affairs, asked Nehru, who has attended all nine past Commonwealth summit sessions, to open the discussions.

Nehru was followed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Conference informants said the full-scale review included such issues as the future of Western relations with Russia and Communist China, disarmament and The Congo.

The 10th post-war conference of Commonwealth premiers began amid rumblings of discontent over South Africa's racial policy.

The question of South Africa will likely come up next week. Opening sessions were to be devoted to surveys of the international scene by individual prime ministers, with emphasis on disarmament, nuclear tests, the United Nations, The Congo situation and East-West rivalry.

At a dinner Tuesday night, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the Commonwealth should not set itself up as a court to "sit in judgment on fellow members."

He said he believes the time will come when the Commonwealth will be able to draw up a declaration of fundamental principles acceptable to all.

Pupils Talk In Silence

A group of youngsters talked freely in the public galleries of the legislature Wednesday, but didn't interrupt the proceedings.

They were from the Jericho school in Vancouver for the deaf and dumb and they spoke in sign language. They "heard" the speeches through sign language interpretation by a teacher.

EDUCATION MINISTER LESLIE PETERSON ... attacks critics

'Worst Tirade Ever'

Buildings Report

United Kingdom this year, Mr. Peterson disclosed.

Any recruiting will be handled by B.C. House. The minister said there were only 37 requests for British teachers this year compared with 143 last year, too small a number to warrant the expense of sending an official.

Social Credit majority bulldozed the opposition's bid to have the government's controversial labor legislation reviewed by a legislative committee representing all political parties.

Alex Macdonald (CCF Vancouver East) tried to get the House to consider a motion that the bill be referred to the labor committee. But Speaker Hugh Shantz ruled it could only be discussed if unanimous leave of the House was given.

The home as an educational institution must be re-established, said George Hobbs (CCF-Revelstoke).

"We as parents and guardians of the home are not creating an atmosphere in the home conducive to study, or conducive to broadening knowledge," this has a paralyzing effect," he said.

"How many times do kids come home and find their mother elsewhere? Growing children need their mother."

The government was asked by the CCF to reconsider its announced intention to refuse to share operating costs of kindergartens, but Mr. Peterson's silence was taken as refusal.

Social Credit member Cyril Sheldford, who voted against a government bill which will increase the gasoline tax, served notice of a motion asking the legislature to recommend that the government consider bringing sale of all petroleum products within jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission.

TV Subject's Plight: $25 a Day

OTTAWA (CP)—The plight of Glen Excelby as portrayed by the CBC brought an obviously rankled Labor Minister

Starr to his feet in the Commons Wednesday with a recital of "real facts." Among them: The unemployed Hamilton salesman who said on a CBC program Tuesday night that he was down to his last $10 in a four-month search for a job had been paid $25 a day during the shooting of the program over "a number of weeks."

OPEN ANGER

These and other tidbits which Mr. Starr said he got from the unemployment insurance office in Hamilton brought thunderous applause from Conservative MPs, who took no pains to hide their anger over the program. Close-up.

Mr. Starr said, "If the CBC wants any real facts before launching upon a program of this kind they can easily obtain them." He gave the Commons this rundown on the information he received:

QUIT JOB

Mr. Excelby registered with the Hamilton unemployment insurance office on Sept. 9, after quitting a $6,000-a-year job as a salesman because there was "no future" in it. On Nov. 29 he took a $350-a-month job with a Hamilton steel company and was laid off Jan. 30.

About that time, he answered a CBC advertisement for "a white collar worker for a television program." He got the job—and the $25 a day.

On Feb. 24, the unemployment insurance office in Hamilton offered Mr. Excelby a foreman's job with another Hamilton company. He turned it down. Mr. Starr didn't mention the pay involved.

"He said at that time that he was considering three other offers and also indicated that he was not anxious to accept a position in view of the forthcoming appearance of the television program," Mr. Starr said.

'REVIEW OFFERS'

Offers of work in Montreal, Hull and Sudbury had been made to him since the TV program. He told the Hamilton office "that he will review the offers which have come to him as a result of the program and if none is satisfactory he will once again apply for work."

"I am very sorry that the program did not reveal these facts also," Mr. Starr said. There were cries of "shame, shame" from the Commons floor.

OPENING QUERY

W. C. Henderson (PC—Carleton Place) provided the opening for Mr. Starr's statement by asking whether the National Employment Service was doing anything to get Mr. Excelby a job.

Ron Fraser, CBC vice-president for corporate affairs, said in a statement after the Commons discussion:

"All of the factors connected with the presentation of this program are being rechecked. We do not expect to have further comment until this recheck has been completed."

B.C. Clears Indian Band Of Abduction

Abduction charges against West Saanich Indians will be dropped, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday.

The charges were laid after an Indian woman was taken from her home on the reserve and compelled to join a band of ceremonial dancers in an ancient initiation ceremony.

NOT AWARE

"It is not the desire of the Crown to interfere in local Indian traditional rituals and I am satisfied that the local band was, at the time the particular event took place, not aware that their rites were possibly in violation of criminal law," said the attorney-general.

Mr. Bonner indicated it had been pointed out to Chief Ed Underwood of the Tsawout Band that the ceremony traditionally carried out violates certain provisions of the criminal code.

Chief Underwood, who met officials of the attorney-general's department, said it was not the wish of his band or any other bands on Vancouver Island who carried out such a traditional dance to violate the law.

EVERY WISH

The chief also indicated that his people were prepared to accept this as a very serious warning and that all steps would be taken to see that his group would observe the law when carrying out the ritual.

Mr. Bonner, in a prepared statement, said the Crown had every wish and hope that the traditional Indian dances would continue as a part of the common heritage of the country.

He assured Chief Underwood that it was not the desire of the Crown in any way to interfere with such rites when they were not in conflict with the laws of the country.

Jail Tutor Arrested As Pusher

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — J. A. York, a vocational instructor at the British Columbia penitentiary here, Wednesday was charged with being in possession of narcotics for the purpose of trafficking. RCMP said they have recovered 80 capsules containing a white powder.

They said York was arrested following a joint investigation with the penitentiary staff.

'Calamity' Strikes Rio

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Governor Carlos Lacerda proclaimed a "state of calamity" in this city Wednesday as its 3,500,000 persons entered the fifth day of the most serious water shortage in its history. Pumps were broken by floods last week.

Courtesy Costs Fortune

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police traffic superintendent John Flisk estimated Wednesday the city could lose $300,000 in traffic fines annually under the courtesy warning system which replaced most traffic "tickets" 11 days ago. Flisk said 702 warning notices were issued in the seven days after the scheme started Feb. 25.

Arms Negotiation Renewal Likely

OTTAWA (CP) — Prospects for a resumption of disarmament talks appear to be good, External Affairs Minister Green said Wednesday.

"The whole disarmament picture looks considerably brighter than it did before Christmas," he told the Commons.

He was replying to Paul Martin (L—Essex East), who had asked about prospects for a resumption of the 10-power committee on disarmament of which Canada is a member.

Mr. Green said it is too early to give an accurate forecast of when negotiations will be resumed—or in what form. There had been considerable relaxation of tension and now there were prospects of Russian-American negotiation later this year, he said.

Coast to Coast In 50 Minutes

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — The X15's top speed of almost 3,000 miles an hour on its paint-blistering speed run would carry it from New York to Los Angeles in 50 minutes.

Maj. Robert White's top speed in the experimental plane Tuesday was 2,905 miles an hour, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced yesterday.

That speed is 255 miles an hour faster than originally announced. And it is 620 miles an hour faster than the old speed record White held in an X15 with a smaller powerplant. Eventually the X15 is designed to fly 100 miles above the earth at speeds of 4,000 miles an hour.

Quebec Lottery Likely

QUEBEC CITY (UPI) — Premier Jean Lesage hinted Wednesday that the province of Quebec will soon have a provincial lottery.

He told a six-member delegation of railway union officials that the provincial government was studying the proposal.

He also said he discussed the matter with Justice Minister David Fulton at last month's federal-provincial fiscal conference and received assurance from Fulton that the matter would be looked into.

The union delegation presented a brief asking that a provincial lottery be held to help pay the cost of the province's medical services.

Treaty Vote Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) said yesterday the Senate foreign relations committee might vote next Tuesday on the Columbia Basin treaty between the United States and Canada.

Fulbright, chairman of the committee, said he expected no opposition to the treaty which then would go to the full Senate for ratification.

(See also Page 14.) A two-thirds majority is needed for ratification of the treaty, which calls for joint development of water resources of the Columbia by the United States and Canada for a 60-year period.

Bomb Discovered As A-Sub Passes

KILDONAN, Scotland (Reuters) — A live bomb was discovered here on Arran Island yesterday as the nuclear-powered United States submarine Patrick Henry passed by on its way to the submarine supply base in Holy Loch.

A three-man naval bomb disposal team exploded the bomb near this island hamlet in the Firth of Clyde a few hours after the submarine went by.

The Coast Guard here said the bomb made "a small explosion" when detonated by the team. The island's police would say nothing about it.

The Patrick Henry, first of 10 Polaris-armed submarines due to use the Holy Loch supply base, passed within a few miles of Kildonan on its way to join its mother ship, the Proteus.

The 5,900-ton submarine, packing a full nuclear punch of 16 Polaris missiles, spent a record 66 days and 22 hours under water on its trip from Charleston, S.C.

Quit Job, Get Welfare Court Orders Mother

VANCOUVER (CP) — A juvenile court judge in Burnaby Tuesday ordered a working mother to go back on social assistance in order to supervise a delinquent son.

Judge C. C. Bell told the woman to leave her employment as a hospital maid, after her two sons appeared in court.

The older boy, 14, was sentenced to not less than a year in the Brannan Lake Industrial school on six counts of theft.

The woman's 10-year-old boy was fined $25 on three charges of committing a delinquency by stealing. His mother was ordered to pay the fine.

"If there is further evidence of lack of supervision I will recommend that your children be placed in foster homes," the judge said.

Two attendants, seeing a half-dressed man sprinting through the snow, came to the obvious conclusion.

"All of a sudden a car stopped behind me and I was seized by two white-coated attendants," Greig said yesterday. "There was no rough stuff, but there was no discussion either. I had to go with them."

"I tried to explain who I was, but they understood no English and I speak no Norwegian. I had the impression they believed I believed I was the King of England."

"So there I sat, behind locked doors, until a doctor came and the whole thing was cleared up."

Three hours after Greig left the house, his wife received an urgent telephone call to "come and get me out of this madhouse."

"I told her to fetch me in the car," he said. "I wasn't going to risk more running through those hospital grounds."

London Parley Agrees

LONDON (CP) — Commonwealth prime ministers Wednesday expressed general agreement that Communist China must be brought into any disarmament agreements to make them meaningful.

In a wide exchange of views, the majority was also reported to have called for Communist China's admission to the United Nations.

MAY HAVE TO

Reuters news agency said Wednesday night that Britain is already reported to have informed President Kennedy privately that Britain may have to back Communist China's admission if the issue comes to a vote at the UN this fall.

The majority of Commonwealth prime ministers are likely to line up with Britain, Reuters added.

There was no indication of any change in the Canadian position opposing UN discussion of China's admission.

HARMONIOUS

Today's opening discussions at the 10th annual prime ministers' conference were described as harmonious.

South Africa's application to remain in the club as a republic — which still is generating a lot of heated controversy — is expected to come up Monday.

The feeling is growing that South Africa will remain in, but not without fiery criticism.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is expected to be among the leading critics of apartheid.

RIGHTS DECLARATION

He intends to ask his fellow leaders to support a Commonwealth declaration guaranteeing equal rights to all, regardless of race, creed or color.

He touched briefly on the Congo crisis Wednesday and expressed appreciation of the Indian decision to send more combat troops.

He said the UN's Congo force should include more troops from white nations, but he did not indicate that Canada plans to increase her troops there.

'Come Get Me Out of This Madhouse!'

OSLO, Norway (UPI) — Stanley Greig, a Royal Air Force officer stationed at NATO headquarters here, is a bit of an athlete but not really nuts on the subject.

Whenever he has a respite from his duties he dons shorts and an old sweatshirt and sets out on a brisk trot through suburban Oslo in a one-man keep-fit campaign.

Last Saturday he kissed his wife goodbye and then made the mistake of trotting onto the grounds of the Gaustad mental institution. He realized his mistake and tried to canter out again.

Two attendants, seeing a half-dressed man sprinting through the snow, came to the obvious conclusion.

"All of a sudden a car stopped behind me and I was seized by two white-coated attendants," Greig said yesterday. "There was no rough stuff, but there was no discussion either. I had to go with them."

"I tried to explain who I was, but they understood no English and I speak no Norwegian. I had the impression they believed I believed I was the King of England."

came and the whole thing was cleared up."

Three hours after Greig left the house, his wife received an urgent telephone call to "come and get me out of this madhouse."

Night Flight Ban Baffles Manager Of Cassidy Strip

NANAIMO — Cassidy Airport manager Gordon MacSwain is puzzled over an order from the department of transport banning night flying from the airport.

The order was effective as

Ambulance Driver Own Client

NANAIMO — Ambulance driver Gordon Wagner became his own passenger yesterday. Driving an ambulance over Pearson Bridge, Wagner collapsed at the wheel.

He managed to stop the ambulance before becoming unconscious. Bob Kemp, a service station manager, and Woodlands Junior High School teacher Glen Di-Georgio drove Wagner to Nanaimo General Hospital where he was treated and then released.

from March 1. Eight days have now passed but nothing has been done to curtail night flying.

"I really don't know what the situation is at all," said the bewildered manager yesterday.

Mr. MacSwain added that the DOT's radio range station at the airport is still operational "so what is happening, or what should have happened is a mystery."

Mr. MacSwain said the order came from Robert Haggerty, officer in charge of the Cassidy radio range.

The order read that as from March 1, 1961, the Nanaimo airport would be operated on a daylight basis. All past night flying privileges would be cancelled.

Meanwhile Nanaimo civic chamber officials are backing Nanaimo MP Walter Matthews to retain night flying.

Mayor Pete Maffeo said the city is only "too willing to assist Mr. Matthews."

The MP has requested the city and chamber to supply him with additional information on the night flying ban.

Old customers mark return of Cowichan's farmers' market with a buying spree.

Returns on Wheels

Market Rolls In

DUNCAN — There is good news for district residents who like to purchase fresh produce and meat products from farmers.

Out of a permanent home for their Saturday sales ever since the city tore down the old market stalls last year to make way for a new parking lot, the farmers are rolling back into business on portable wooden trailers.

Three farmers wheeled their new trailers into the parking lot last weekend for a trial run and enjoyed one of the most successful selling days in several months.

First to put their products on wheels were Miss Betty Cavin of Old Koksilah Road, Jack Young of Koksilah and Henning Ottosen, Cowichan Station.

Other farmers are now expected to follow suit and have similar trailers built.

Each of the 8-by-10-foot trailers is a store within itself. Sturdy wooden frame on a two-wheel steel chassis, they weigh about 800 pounds and are easily transported. They have ample shelves for displaying products and large storage space. One of the sides folds up to make an awning to protect customers against either rain or sun.

BRIGHT NOTE Painted various colors, they add a bright note to the downtown business area.

Saturday shopping at the farmers' market, a tradition in the Cowichan district for 30 years, has been restored thanks to a trio of enterprising farmers-on-wheels.

Like old times

"It was just like old times again," commented Jack Young, as crowds thronged around the trailers and bought nearly every item that was for sale.

Nature House in Park

$20,000 Project for Miracle Beach

The provincial recreation department will build a $20,000 nature house at Miracle Beach, scheduled for a start in May and completion by spring of 1962.

The new nature house will replace two tent houses that have been used at Miracle Beach Park for the past two years and will be exactly the same as a nature house just completed at Manning Park on the Hope-Princeton highway.

It will measure 50 feet by 32 feet, the roof will be mostly a giant skylight and exterior will be cedar siding.

Salt water from the beach will be piped into three marine aquariums which will be a main feature of the exhibit.

Tied in with the nature house will be a nature trail. The nature house will be filled with exhibits of marine, wildlife and forest exhibits to be found in Miracle Beach Park, 14 miles north of Courtenay.

Last summer when the Manning Park and Miracle Beach nature houses operated in tents some 37,000 visitors went through them, an increase of 27 per cent over the previous year.

No final plans have yet been made, but parks officials say a nature house for Goldstream Park is under careful study.

Campbell on Schools:

Best Bargain In B.C. Today

School trustees' and teachers' federations were accused yesterday of "kitting on the fence" and refusing to go out to sell B.C. taxpayers that education was the biggest bargain going in the province today.

Dan Campbell (SC-Comox), a school teacher before he became a politician, said the B.C. School Trustees' Association and the B.C. Teachers' Federation had a golden opportunity to stand up and be counted.

And he accused parents of being the chief offenders in causing the thinking that an individual pupil had failed if he wound-up in a general education program instead of specialized courses.

Education in B.C. was indeed a bargain, he said. Very few people were paying more than $100 of the $940 it cost to educate each pupil annually.

"Thousands are actually picking up this bargain for a dollar," said Mr. Campbell.

While it was true that the government was paying 53 per cent of the cost of education and local governments the other 47 per cent, if the $50 homeowner grant was taken into account the percentage of the government contribution rose to 62 per cent and municipalities 38 per cent.

There is absolutely no place on the North American continent where local taxpayers are getting such a bargain at so reasonable a cost," declared Mr. Campbell.

"The B.C. School Trustees' Association and the B.C. Teachers' Federation have a golden opportunity to stand up and be counted and sell the public that it's getting the best bargain in the province today."

Promise in House

University Won't Lose Unused Grant

Victoria University will not lose any of its $500,000 capital construction grant because it has been unable to spend it during the current fiscal year.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson made that promise yesterday in answer to a question from Waldo Skilling (SC-Victoria). "Normally it would lose ... This year they haven't made full use of the $500,000 and we are making arrangements so the cheque will be issued before the end of the fiscal year," Mr. Peterson said.

B.C. Clears Indian Band Of Abduction

Abduction charges against West Saanich Indians will be dropped, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday.

The charges were laid after an Indian woman was taken from her home on the reserve and compelled to join a band of ceremonial dancers in an ancient initiation ceremony.

NOT AWARE
"It is not the desire of the Crown to interfere in local Indian traditional rituals and I am satisfied that the local band was, at the time the particular event took place, not aware that their rites were possibly in violation of criminal law," said the attorney-general.

Mr. Bonner indicated it had been pointed out to Chief Ed Underwood of the Tsawout Band that the ceremony traditionally carried out violates certain provisions of the criminal code.

OTHER BANDS

Chief Underwood, who met officials of the attorney-general's department, said it was not the wish of his band or any other bands on Vancouver Island who carried out such a traditional dance to violate the law.

The chief also indicated that his people were prepared to accept this as a very serious warning and that all steps would be taken to see that his group would observe the law when carrying out the ritual.

EVERY WISH

Mr. Bonner, in a prepared statement, said the Crown had every wish and hope that the traditional Indian dances would continue as a part of the common heritage of the country.

He assured Chief Underwood that it was not the desire of the Crown in any way to interfere with such rites when they were not in conflict with the laws of the country.

Jail Tutor Arrested As Pusher

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — J. A. York, a vocational instructor at the British Columbia penitentiary here, Wednesday was charged with being in possession of narcotics for the purpose of trafficking.

RCMP said they have recovered 80 capsules containing a white powder.

They said York was arrested following a joint investigation with the penitentiary staff.

'Calamity' Strikes Rio

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Governor Carlos Lacerda proclaimed a "state of calamity" in this city Wednesday as the 3,500,000 persons entered the fifth day of the most serious water shortage in its history. Pumps were broken by floods last week.

Courtesy Costs Fortune

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police traffic superintendent John Plisk estimated Wednesday the city could lose $300,000 in traffic fines annually under the courtesy warning system which replaced most traffic "tickets" 11 days ago. Plisk said 702 warning notices were issued in the seven days after the scheme started Feb. 25.

Socreds Choose Hahn

Arms Negotiation Renewal Likely

Quebec Lottery Likely

QUEBEC CITY (UPI) — Premier Jean Lesage hinted Wednesday that the province of Quebec will soon have a provincial lottery.

He told a six-member delegation of railway union officials that the provincial government was studying the proposal.

He also said he discussed the matter with Justice Minister David Fulton at last month's federal-provincial fiscal conference and received assurance from Fulton that the matter would be looked into.

The union delegation presented a brief asking that a provincial lottery be held to help pay the cost of the province's medical services.

Treaty Vote Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) said yesterday the Senate foreign relations committee might vote next Tuesday on the Columbia Basin treaty between the United States and Canada.

Fulbright, chairman of the committee, said he expected no opposition to the treaty which then would go to the full Senate for ratification. (See also Page 14.)

A two-thirds majority is needed for ratification of the treaty, which calls for joint development of water resources of the Columbia by the United States and Canada for a 60-year period.

Premiers Back Britain

LONDON (CP) — Commonwealth prime ministers Wednesday expressed general agreement that Communist China must be brought into any disarmament agreements to make them meaningful.

In a wide exchange of views, the majority was also reported to have called for Communist China's admission to the United Nations.

MAY HAVE TO

Reuters news agency said Wednesday night that Britain is already reported to have informed President Kennedy privately that Britain may have to back Communist China's admission if the issue comes to a vote at the UN this fall.

The majority of Commonwealth prime ministers are likely to line up with Britain, Reuters added.

There was no indication of any change in the Canadian position opposing UN discussion of China's admission.

HARMONIOUS

The opening discussions at the 10th annual prime ministers' conference were described as harmonious.

South Africa's application to remain in the club as a republic — which still is generating a lot of heated controversy — is expected to come up Monday. (See Page 31.)

The feeling is growing that South Africa will remain in, but not without fiery criticism.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is expected to be among the leading critics of apartheid.

RIGHTS DECLARATION

He intends to ask his fellow leaders to support a Commonwealth declaration guaranteeing equal rights to all, regardless of race, creed or color.

He touched briefly on the Congo crisis Wednesday and expressed appreciation of the Indian decision to send more combat troops.

He said the UN's Congo force should include more troops from white nations, but he did not indicate that Canada plans to increase her troops there.

Bomb Discovered As A-Sub Passes

KILDONAN, Scotland (Reuters) — A live bomb was discovered here on Arran Island yesterday as the nuclear-powered United States submarine Patrick Henry passed by on its way to the submarine supply base in Holy Loch.

A three-man naval bomb disposal team exploded the bomb near this island hamlet in the Firth of Clyde a few hours after the submarine went by.

The Coast Guard here said the bomb made "a small explosion" when detonated by the team. The island's police would say nothing about it.

The Patrick Henry, first of 10 Polaris-armed submarines due to use the Holy Loch supply base, passed within a few miles of Kildonan on its way to join its mother ship, the Proteus.

The 5,900-ton submarine, packing a full nuclear punch of 16 Polaris missiles, spent a record 66 days and 22 hours under water on its trip from Charleston, S.C.

Pacifist Dunked

DUNOON, Scotland (UPI) — A lone pacifist's attempt to board the U.S. Polaris submarine Patrick Henry ended in ignominious failure Wednesday when his canoe capsized.

As the submarine moved to, four Royal Navy launches closed in on bearded schoolmaster Laurence Otter as he paddled frantically to come alongside. The canoe capsized in the wash.

Quit Job, Get Welfare Court Orders Mother

VANCOUVER (CP) — A juvenile court judge in Burnaby Tuesday ordered a working mother to go back on social assistance in order to supervise a delinquent son.

Judge C. C. Bell told the woman to leave her employment as a hospital maid, after her two sons appeared in court.

The older boy, 14, was sentenced to not less than a year in the Brannan Lake industrial school on six counts of theft.

The woman's 10-year-old boy was fined $25 on three charges of committing a delinquency by stealing. His mother was ordered to pay the fine.

"If there is further evidence of lack of supervision I will recommend that your children be placed in foster homes," the judge said.

Two attendants, seeing a half-dressed man sprinting through the snow, came to the obvious conclusion.

"All of a sudden a car stopped behind me and I was seized by two white-coated attendants," Greig said yesterday. "There was no rough stuff, but there was no discussion either. I had to go with them."

"I tried to explain who I was, but they understood no English and I speak no Norwegian. I had the impression they believed I believed I was the King of England."

"So there I sat, behind locked doors, until a doctor came and the whole thing was cleared up."

Three hours after Greig left the house, his wife received an urgent telephone call to "come and get me out of this madhouse."

"I told her to fetch me in the car," he said. "I wasn't going to risk more running through those hospital grounds."

'Come Get Me Out of This Madhouse!'

OSLO, Norway (UPI) — Stanley Greig, a Royal Air Force officer stationed at NATO headquarters here, is a bit of an athlete but not really nuts on the subject.

Whenever he has a respite from his duties he dons shorts and an old sweatshirt and sets out on a brisk trot through suburban Oslo in a one-man keep-fit campaign.

Last Saturday he kissed his wife goodbye and then made the mistake of trotting onto the grounds of the Gaustad mental institution. He realized his mistake and tried to enter out again.

Two attendants, seeing a half-dressed man sprinting through the snow, came to the obvious conclusion.

"All of a sudden a car stopped behind me and I was seized by two white-coated attendants," Greig said yesterday. "There was no rough stuff, but there was no discussion either. I had to go with them."

"I tried to explain who I was, but they understood no English and I speak no Norwegian. I had the impression they believed I believed I was the King of England."

"So there I sat, behind locked doors, until a doctor came and the whole thing was cleared up."

Three hours after Greig left the house, his wife received an urgent telephone call to "come and get me out of this madhouse."

"I told her to fetch me in the car," he said. "I wasn't going to risk more running through those hospital grounds."
